

McNamara Says Cuba Caves Store Missiles Mao, Khrush Agree To Talks

Secretary Criticizes U. S. Critics

Denies Any Deal Between Soviet And This Country

By ARDEN COOPER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has told congressmen that there may be several hundred missiles in Cuban caves, but he said he is convinced they are all relatively small, defensive weapons.

McNamara expressed confidence in the Kennedy administration's Cuban policy and attacked critics who "damn the intelligence community without knowing more about it." Such criticism "is doing our nation a disservice," the secretary said.

In secret testimony released Monday by the House Armed Services Committee, McNamara said there was no deal between the United States and the Soviet Union to swap Soviet missiles in Cuba for U.S. rockets in Turkey and Italy.

"There is absolutely no connection whatsoever between the forced removal by the U.S. military pressure upon Cuba of the Soviet missiles introduced in Cuba on the one hand and—not the removal but the modernization—of the missiles in Turkey and Italy."

Polaris missiles based on nuclear submarines in the Mediterranean area will have "a much higher probability of survival in the face of a sudden, nuclear attack," he said. The Polaris submarines are to replace the relatively vulnerable, above-ground Jupiter missile installations in Italy and Turkey.

When Rep. Frank C. Osmers Jr., R-N.Y., said "our intelligence community is completely inadequate," McNamara replied by describing Osmers' statement as "completely erroneous."

McNamara said the Soviet Union could not send into Cuba "substantial quantities of equipment which would endanger this nation's security without being detected by the intelligence resources we have at our disposal."

"To damn the intelligence community as it has been damned here this morning, without knowing more about it and without being able to suggest a positive program that will improve the situation, I think is doing our nation a disservice."

French Miners Scuffle With Police Guards

PARIS (AP)—Striking coal miners scuffled briefly with police Monday afternoon in eastern France as their strike went into its 11th day.

Although calm prevailed over most of France, tension was building up in the town of Merlebach, on the German border.

Shouting and singing strikers marched to regional headquarters of the state-owned coal mine company Monday morning to persuade office workers to leave their desks.

A reinforced police guard stayed inside the big iron fence ringing the company headquarters. The demonstration broke up after the office workers walked out of the building. The office workers had stayed away from the job last week but some of them decided to go back to work.

A group of pickets halted a bus carrying administrative personnel of the company. Police moved in to clear the road and miners and police pushed and shoved each other for a few minutes. Contact was quickly broken off. There were no injuries.

Kennedy Prods Solons On Economic Proposals

More Talk On Skybolt

Gen. Lauris Norstad, right, retired Supreme Allied Commander in Europe, chats informally with Sen. Henry Jackson, (D-Wash.), at a Senate Government Operations Subcommittee hearing yesterday. Soviet Union Now Has 20 Nuclear Subs

LONDON (AP)—The Soviet Union now has 20 or more nuclear submarines, many with surface-to-surface missiles, for use in a new Soviet sea strategy to help spread communism, Cecil Orr-Ewing, civil lord of the admiralty, announced Monday in the House of Commons.

Earlier this year the annual, Jane's Fighting Ships, reported its latest information was that the Soviet Union had 12 nuclear submarines operational, with five or six being completed each year.

Presenting navy estimates to Parliament, Orr-Ewing warned that the Soviet Union was developing a new maritime strategy in spreading Communist influence throughout the world. This development, he said, must have a profound effect on naval thinking and planning.

By comparison, the United States now has 27 nuclear submarines — 10 of which are equipped with Polaris missiles.

Missile-firing fast patrol boats the U.S.S.R. has already supplied to Cuba and is about to supply the Indonesian navy are of particular significance, he said.

Mercy Vessel Returns To U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI)—S. S. Hope, the world-touring hospital ship supported by donations from U.S. citizens, received a fireboat spray and whistle reception Monday on her first visit to New York Harbor.

The mercy vessel, staffed with volunteers, returned to the United States from a 10-month medical mission to Peru. Mayor Robert F. Wagner extended an official welcome.

The ship is sponsored by the People-to-People Health Foundation. It was converted in 1960 from a Navy hospital ship to a private vessel and first visited ports in Southeast Asia, providing medical training as well as treatment.

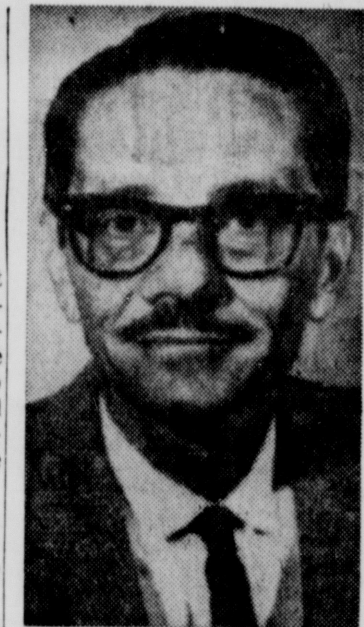

New York Social Worker, Murdered By Gang, Becomes Martyr

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

NEW YORK (AP)—Sometimes a sacrifice bestows a blessing. Sometimes the end of a man's life can mean the beginning of it for others. Sometimes the death of one opens the eyes of many.

It seemed to be that way Monday in the cluttered slums of East Harlem.

Two months ago, a Yale divinity student and youth worker, Louis C. Marsh, 29, was killed because he sought to stem the warring of juvenile gangs. Now, his charges were agreeing that he was right.

ANDREU ORDONO

Reports Break Between Fidel And Guevara

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—There is a rift between Fidel Castro and Ernesto Guevara, his economic czar, says a Cuban refugee who knows Guevara.

Andreu Ordone, who audited the books for 17 months at the Cuban Ministry of Industries before he fled in a small boat to Florida last week, told Miami Herald Latin-American editor Al Burt Monday that Guevara, minister of industries, "knows nothing about Cuba's industries, but he is more honest than all the other members of the government. When he speaks to the public, he tries to say the truth."

"That is why he and Fidel are enemies. For seven or eight months now, they don't even like to talk to each other. Guevara and Raul Castro, Fidel's brother, and defense minister, quarrel too," Ordone said.

Fidel, Guevara and Camilo Cienfuegos, who disappeared mysteriously in November 1959, were the three top figures in Castro's revolution that toppled Fulgencio Batista.

JFK Declares Unemployment Is Disgrace

Wants Tax Cut As Direct Aid To Create Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy prodded Congress on Monday to get moving on his tax cut and other economic proposals to curb rising unemployment, a condition he views as a national disgrace.

The President plugged for his programs in transmitting the first annual manpower report to Congress. It describes an economy growing steadily more efficient and less able to provide jobs for a rapidly increasing population.

"Ours is a rich nation," Kennedy said, "but not inexhaustibly so. There are 32 million Americans still on the fringes of poverty, and worse. A nation can waste its resources as surely as an individual can. The greatest waste today is that of unemployment."

Kennedy said the problems involve "not only the job security of the individual, but in a broader sense, the question whether man will be the master or the servant of the machines he creates."

Tornadoes Hop Across Two States

CULLMAN, Ala. (UPI)—Tornadoes whirled out of a vicious squall line and hop-skatched across north Alabama and Tennessee Monday injuring scores of people and causing at least two deaths.

Highway patrolmen and Red Cross officials fanned out into the sparsely settled areas and reported that more than 100 homes and farms were severely damaged or destroyed.

Cullman County alone counted damages in the thousands of dollars and had 75 structures either demolished or damaged.

At least five persons were hospitalized in Alabama and numerous others crowded into emergency rooms for treatment. One injury was reported in Tennessee.

Three twisters skipped across middle Tennessee causing extensive damage to about 25 structures. Two of the funnels dipped near Murfreesboro and another tore a path about half-mile wide and three miles long through a rural area west of Lawrenceburg.

In addition, mud and rock slides caused by the heavy rains blocked Highway 70 in the Nashville area.

Apparently the hardest hit area was in Cullman County just south of the Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala. and about 40 miles north of Bessemer where a tornado did an estimated $7 million damage last Tuesday.

Weather officials reported the twisters cut a quarter-mile wide swath "all the way across the county."

Both the fatalities were in Cullman County. Mrs. Geraldine Brock Bowen of the Berlin community was killed when her home was demolished. Mrs. Minnie Dunn, 80, was killed at her home in the nearby community of Phenlan.

Rusk Voices Doubt For Test Ban

Sees No Prospect For Agreement In Near Future

By GARDNER L. BRIDGE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Monday he sees no prospect of a nuclear test-ban agreement in the near future.

Rusk told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that negotiations with the Russians are being pursued at Geneva in the hope of reaching at least a first step toward halting the arms race.

But he said, "There is no indication of serious progress in these negotiations."

"Do you anticipate an agreement in the near future?" asked Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt.

"No," replied Rusk. "I do not." Rusk defended U.S. concessions aimed at inducing the Soviets to agree on a treaty. He said the Geneva talks are made more difficult by public debate in this country over the American proposals.

Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ar., told Rusk that administration efforts to negotiate an agreement in the open have brought the whole subject under partisan debate.

"I disagree with the whole procedure," Fulbright said sharply. "It is a very poor procedure you have followed."

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., who recently served as an observer at the Geneva talks, also criticized the way the negotiations are being conducted.

Looks Like Comedians

Humphrey said that two days after a newspaper reported the United States had reduced its demands for on-site inspections from 20 to 7, the State Department confirmed this was true.

Meanwhile, Humphrey said, his mission had been to "go around and tell the allies and neutrals it wasn't true."

"It made us look like comedians," Humphrey said. "I don't know how in the devil you are going to conduct negotiations under these circumstances."

Move Launched For Unity In Middle East

CAIRO (AP)—Iraqi Foreign Minister Taleb Hussein Shabib arrived in Cairo Monday and handed President Gamal Abdel Nasser proposals for immediately linking Syria, Iraq and the United Arab Republic militarily and politically.

The Iraqi revolutionary regime's blueprint for Arab unity also is intended to embrace Algeria and Yemen eventually. Speculation arose that a Nasser-style Arab summit meeting is in the making.

Informed sources in Cairo said Shabib's proposals were welcomed warmly but that Nasser is determined to approach any new moves toward Arab unity with caution. One consideration is apparent doubts about how far each party is willing to go.

Nasser's star is seen on the rise once more, but thus far there has been no dramatic move in Cairo such as in Damascus, where an Iraqi delegation is publicly predicting that Syria, Iraq and the U.A.R. will definitely unite.

British-French Rift Is Target For Macmillan

Begins Plan To Wipe Out Differences

United States Gives Proposal Tacit Blessing

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan embarked Monday on an attempt to repair the rift between Britain and France and bolster the military, economic and political strength of Western Europe.

His new move, in its formative stage as yet, was undertaken with the tacit blessing of the United States.

Its major aim is to prevent the initiative for shaping the future of Western Europe from falling by default to President Charles de Gaulle of France.

Diplomatic sources said Macmillan specifically wants to keep open the prospect that Britain can join the Common Market at some later date, after dissipating French objections on this subject.

Macmillan also wants European members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to push ahead with the multinational nuclear force idea which he and President Kennedy developed at their Nassau conference last December, informants said.

View Objectives

A broad outline of Macmillan's objectives was discussed at a Foreign Office meeting presided over by Deputy Foreign Minister Edward Heath. More than 20 British ambassadors and senior officials from key posts in Europe were called in for this conference.

This is related to a second move—dispatching of foreign secretary Lord Home to Paris on March 19 and 20 to address a regular meeting of the NATO permanent council.

Two Ex-Convicts Admit Kidnaping Police Officers

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Two ex-convicts described by police as "most talkative" confessed kidnaping a couple of Hollywood detectives but accused each other of shooting one of the officers to death.

Their stories follow right down the line, but when it comes to the murder they each point to the other guy," said Sgt. P. R. Brooks of the Los Angeles Homicide Bureau.

Both suspects — Gregory Powell, 30, of Boulder City, Nev., and Jimmy Lee Smith, 32, of Los Angeles — were arrested within 24 hours after the kidnap-slaying. They admitted kidnaping officers Ian Campbell, 30, of Chatsworth and Karl Hettinger, 28, when the policemen stopped their car for a routine check.

Campbell was shot to death in a deserted plowed field near Bakersfield, Calif. Hettinger escaped by zig-zagging through brush and hiding in some weeds when a cloud drifted across the full moon.

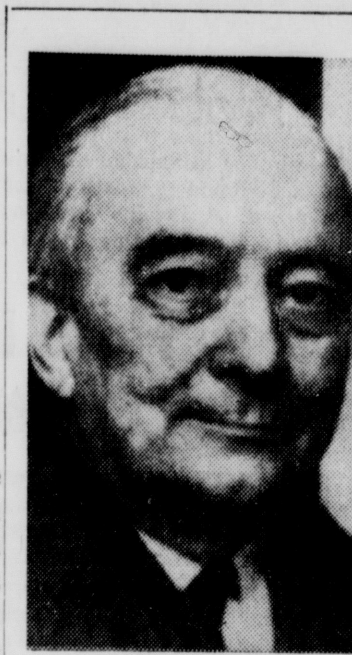

He was a saint. He did so much for the boys and so much for their families."

The Rev. Dr. Robert W. Spike, a United Church of Christ official and a friend of Marsh, said:

"I hold that Lou Marsh stands in the long line of Christian martyrs, as truly as any has ever stood there. His one desire was to stand open and defenseless before his fellow men, sharing their lot, communicating with them on such a basic level that even to talk about communication was an artificiality."

GEORGES BIDAULT

Bidault Puts German Leader In Bad Spot

BONN, Germany (AP)—Put on the spot by a quirk of French politics, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Monday rebuffed an appeal from his old friend Georges Bidault for asylum as the fugitive foe of Adenauer's new friend, Charles de Gaulle.

But Adenauer's government said it would have no objection if Bavarian state authorities gave refuge to Bidault under certain conditions. It did not spell out these conditions. A highly informed source said the most important one was that Bidault stop all political activity.

Switzerland eliminated itself as a possible haven. A Swiss government spokesman said Bidault, political leader of the French right-wing Secret Army organization, and his chief aide, Jacques Soustelle, would not be allowed to cross the frontier.

"They are leading a conspiracy against the legal government of France, a friendly neighboring country, and Switzerland cannot grant asylum to persons active in such a movement," he said.

Austria remained a possibility in case Bidault is expelled. The dapper French resistance leader, who formed close ties with Adenauer as foreign minister and premier in the years after World War II, was located by police at a Bavarian hideout Sunday. He had dispatched a hand-written letter to the chancellor asking him personally for political refuge.

Deputy press chief Werner Krueger said Adenauer, apparently learning in advance of Bidault's intention, sent back the letter unopened.

But Krueger pointed out that under German law the decision on whether Bidault should be given asylum or expelled was up to local authorities of Bavaria, where Bidault remains under police surveillance and protection.

The Secret Army's main aim is elimination of De Gaulle, the French president with whom Adenauer signed a treaty Jan. 21 to promote enduring cooperation in diplomacy and defense between their peoples, historic enemies.

There was still a number of hurdles to overcome before the 94-day-old newspaper blackout could be written into history.

One of the terms of the tentative settlement reached between the publishers and striking printers was a common expiration date of all newspaper union contracts.

Proposal Seen As End Of Red Rift

Some Observers Say Leaders Must Meet Personally

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

MOSCOW (AP)—Red China's Mao Tze-tung has accepted Soviet Premier Khrushchev's proposal for Soviet-Chinese talks on their ideological dispute, the government paper Izvestia said Monday night.

The agreement could be an important break in the quarrel that has shaken the Communist world. Or it could be simply a low-level meeting to settle nothing.

Informed sources said a Chinese-Soviet meeting could accomplish nothing unless Mao and Khrushchev met personally. But there was no indication of that in announcements here and in Peking. Nothing was said of a date for a meeting or who will take part.

On the surface, the agreement also appeared to represent a Communist Chinese concession.

The Red Chinese have demanded a showdown meeting on the ideological dispute with the participation of all the world Communist parties.

Khrushchev, at the German Communist party congress in January, turned down the Chinese demand and asked for two-nation talks.

The Soviet news agency Tass said Khrushchev sent a letter to the Chinese Feb. 21, repeating his call for a halt to the public wrangling and suggesting the two parties meet privately to iron out their differences.

The letter was followed by a meeting in Peking on Feb. 23 of Mao, the Chinese Communist leader, and Soviet Ambassador Stepan V. Chervonenko, Tass reported.

New York ITU Schedules Mass Meeting Sunday

NEW YORK (UPI)—Publishers met with the newspaper guild and two striking craft unions Monday in an effort to put New York's strike-affected newspapers back on the city's news stands next week.

A spokesman for Local 6 of the International Typographical Union (ITU) disclosed the printers have rented the Manhattan Center for Sunday and called a mass membership meeting to vote for ratification of the proposed new contract.

There was still a number of hurdles to overcome before the 94-day-old newspaper blackout could be written into history.

One of the terms of the tentative settlement reached between the publishers and striking printers was a common expiration date of all newspaper union contracts.

Two Ex-Convicts Admit Kidnaping Police Officers

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Two ex-convicts described by police as "most talkative" confessed kidnaping a couple of Hollywood detectives but accused each other of shooting one of the officers to death.

Their stories follow right down the line, but when it comes to the murder they each point to the other guy," said Sgt. P. R. Brooks of the Los Angeles Home-Club Bureau.

Both suspects — Gregory Powell, 30, of Boulder City, Nev., and Jimmy Lee Smith, 32, of Los Angeles — were arrested within 24 hours after the kidnaping-slashing.

They admitted kidnaping officers Ian Campbell, 30, of Chatsworth and Karl Hettinger, 28, when the policemen stopped their car for a routine check.

Campbell was shot to death in a deserted plowed field near Bakersfield, Calif. Hettinger escaped by zig-zagging through brush and hiding in some weeds when a cloud drifted across the full moon.

Marsh, a Philadelphia Negro and graduate of Temple University who planned to resume seminary studies this fall, had devoted his efforts to winning the boys' trust, and to get them to stop their drinking and street ravages, and to return to school or get jobs.

Since his death, five of the 30 have re-entered school. Five others plan to do so. Two have been accepted in a state "youth opportunity" camp. One has a full-time job, and two have part-time jobs through a school program.

GEORGES BIDAULT

Bidault Puts German Leader In Bad Spot

BONN, Germany (AP)—Put on the spot by a quirk of French politics, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Monday rebuffed an appeal from his old friend Georges Bidault for asylum as the fugitive foe of Adenauer's new friend, Charles de Gaulle.

But Adenauer's government said it would have no objection if Bidault under certain conditions. It did not spell out these conditions. A highly informed source said the most important one was that Bidault stop all political activity.

Switzerland eliminated itself as a possible haven. A Swiss government spokesman said Bidault, political leader of the French right-wing Secret Army organization, and his chief aide, Jacques Soustelle, would not be allowed to cross the frontier.

"They are leading a conspiracy against the legal government of France, a friendly neighboring country, and Switzerland cannot grant asylum to persons active in such a movement," he said.

Austria remained a possibility in case Bidault is expelled. The dapper French resistance leader, who formed close ties with Adenauer as foreign minister and premier in the years after World War II, was located by police at a Bavarian hideout Sunday. He had dispatched a hand-written letter to the chancellor asking him personally for political refuge.

Deputy press chief Werner Krueger said Adenauer, apparently learning in advance of Bidault's intention, sent back the letter unopened.

But Krueger pointed out that under German law the decision on whether Bidault should be given asylum or expelled was up to local authorities of Bavaria, where Bidault remains under police surveillance and protection.

Proposal Seen As End Of Red Rift

Some Observers Say Leaders Must Meet Personally

By GEORGE SYVERTSEN

MOSCOW (AP)—Red China's Mao Tze-tung has accepted Soviet Premier Khrushchev's proposal for Soviet-Chinese talks on their ideological dispute, the government paper Izvestia said Monday night.

The agreement could be an important break in the quarrel that has shaken the Communist world. Or it could be simply a low-level meeting to settle nothing.

Informed sources said a Chinese-Soviet meeting could accomplish nothing unless Mao and Khrushchev met personally. But there was no indication of that in announcements here and in Peking. Nothing was said of a date for a meeting or who will take part.

On the surface, the agreement also appeared to represent a Communist Chinese concession.

The Red Chinese have demanded a showdown meeting on the ideological dispute with the participation of all the world Communist parties.

Khrushchev, at the German Communist party congress in January, turned down the Chinese demand and asked for two-nation talks.

The Soviet news agency Tass said Khrushchev sent a letter to the Chinese Feb. 21, repeating his call for a halt to the public wrangling and suggesting the two parties meet privately to iron out their differences.

The letter was followed by a meeting in Peking on Feb. 23 of Mao, the Chinese Communist leader, and Soviet Ambassador Stepan V. Chervonenko, Tass reported.

Court Rules Wilcoxson Is Mentally Well

Termed Capable Of Standing Trial

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Bobby Randall (One Eye) Wilcoxson, who headed the FBI's "ten most wanted" list before his capture in Baltimore last fall, Monday was ruled mentally capable of standing trial on murder and bank-robbery charges.

Federal Judge John O. Henderson said Wilcoxson was "capable of understanding the charges against him and of assisting in his own defense."

Wilcoxson recently underwent psychiatric tests here after his lawyer contended that he was not mentally capable of standing trial.

Wilcoxson is in Erie County Jail here, awaiting a decision by federal authorities on where he will first stand trial.

Indications were that he would first be tried in Brooklyn, where he is accused of firing a submachine gun during a bank holdup in which a guard was killed.

The FBI charged that Wilcoxson, 33, obtained more than $250,000 in eight bank holdups, including $105,267 in two holdups here.

Delaware Guard Plans Airlift Mobility Test

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—About 350 Delaware National Guardsmen will be airlifted to Richmond, Va., Sunday in a test of the Guard's ability to get into action quickly.

Brig. Gen. Herbert Wardell, commander of the 26th Artillery Brigade of the Delaware National Guard, said the exercise would be a one-day operation. The exercise has been named "Operation Byrdwatch" because it involves setting up a defense at Byrd Airport in Richmond.

Wardell said the men would be flown from Greater Wilmington Airport to Byrd beginning at 5 a.m. The men are expected to be combat ready 4 hours after arrival, Wardell said.

The exercise will be carried out under the assumption that an aggressor force controls the southeastern section of the United States, Wardell explained, and the battalion would be isolated with no friendly forces in the area.

Underscoring the President's message and a separate Labor Department manpower report is the rise of unemployment from 5.8 per cent to 6.1 per cent of the work force in February.

Only Pious Statements

Saying that for too long there have been only pious statements about curbing unemployment, the President promised that effective today "we have committed ourselves to a national policy designed to provide all Americans with the opportunity to develop and use their talents and energies to the maximum of which they are capable."

To continue to do otherwise, he said, means a loss of potentially high living standards and underdevelopment of the nations' capabilities.

Tax cuts, he said, "will provide enlarged consumer markets and encourage increased investment, thereby setting in motion demand for additional work and workers." He said tax reduction is "the single strongest push possible toward achieving full employment."

But the President called also for expanded worker-training programs, better education levels, work experience for young people, broader unemployment insurance and minimum wage coverage, elimination of racial discrimination, and experimentation in solving manpower problems.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said in a White House conference the nation should be ashamed to tolerate so high a level of unemployment. He and Kennedy said that if employment grows no faster in the next five years than it has in the past five years, the idle rate will rise above 7 per cent in a relatively few years.

Here are some of the highlights of the manpower report:

Unemployment and underemployment—involuntary part-time work—wasted a billion work days in 1962. The lost work time was equal to shutting down the entire economy for more than three weeks.

In the decade 1947-57 private nonfarm industries generated 700,000 new jobs a year. In the ensuing five-year period, 1957-62, they generated fewer than 200,000 jobs a year; and

For each of the past five years the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate has been 5.5 per cent or more of the work force.

Kennedy said it is singular that of all the new jobs created in the past five years two-thirds are in state and local government, mostly schoolteachers.

As a measure of the effect of new machines and technology while production in the private economy increased 60 per cent in the 1947-62 period, more than 80 per cent of the gain was due to increasing output per manhour. Less than 20 per cent was attributable to more jobs and work time.

Probe Double Slaying

Negro Held In Bizarre Slaying Of White Couple

SALISBURY (AP)—A Negro man who police said admitted the bizarre slaying of a white couple at nearby Eden was held without bond in Wicomico Jail Monday on a charge of homicide.

Herman Townsend, 60, and his wife, Louise, 58, were killed by a single stray rifle slug as they slept Friday night. Their bodies were discovered Sunday by Townsend's brother, Frank, when he and his wife arrived for a visit.

Charged in the slayings was Paul V. Gunther, 38, of Eden. Police said he admitted the killings.

No date had been set for a preliminary hearing. "Investigators are still wrapping up a lot of loose ends," Lt. Thomas E. Veditz, State Police commander in Salisbury, said Monday.

Lt. Harry F. Trumpower of the State Police said Gunther had brooded about the beating of his half-brother, who was not identified.

Trumpower said Gunther went to an Eden store and, upon seeing a man resembling his brother's assailant, opened fire. All four of the shots he fired went wild, Trumpower said.

One of the slugs struck the store just below a window sill of the Townsends' second-floor apartment. Trumpower said the slug penetrated the wall and struck Mrs. Townsend as she slept in a double bed under the window.

The slug passed through her abdomen and struck her husband, who was lying beside her. Townsend managed to get to the kitchen, then collapsed and died. Mrs. Townsend died instantly.

A double funeral service for the Townsends will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Pocomoke City. Burial will be in the cemetery of the Makemie Presbyterian Church in Snow Hill.

11-Year-Old Boy Is Top Winner In Art Exhibit

BALTIMORE (AP)—"When I received notice of my acceptance, I thought the judges must be chimpanzees."

That was the reaction of 11-year-old Eliot Applestein Monday to news that four of his drawings have been hung with the work of prominent artists at the Baltimore Museum of Art.

The fifth-grader at Owings Mills Elementary School, who got a "C" in art on his last report card, did the drawings in pencil on blue memo pads.

"I drew them when I was 8, while lying on my stomach in the den one day," he said. "This is my first show."

Eliot's mother who also is an artist, Mrs. Cas Applestein, submitted his work for competition in the Maryland Regional Exhibition. Three judges chose the exhibits from among 1,600 entries.

Mrs. Applestein thinks her son's drawings resemble those of Henri Matisse. Her view prompted Eliot's remark about chimpanzees.

Museum Director Charles Parkhurst, writing in the introduction to the catalogue for the show, possibly had the last word.

"Even a superficial study of the submitted work," he said, "makes clear the seriousness of purpose of all the artists concerned."

Loyola College History Dept. Chairman Dies

BALTIMORE (AP)—Harry W. Kirwin, 51, chairman of the history department at Loyola College, died at his Baltimore home Monday after an extended illness.

Born in New York City, Kirwin was graduated from Holy Cross College and received his law degree from St. Lawrence University. A long association with Catholic education began in 1937 when he began teaching at Regis High School in New York. He earned his master's degree and doctorate at Fordham University.

A member of the Maryland Historical Society, Kirwin was elected president of the American Catholic Historical Association in 1959. Last year, Archbishop Lawrence Shehan of Baltimore appointed him a lay member of the Archdiocesan Commission on Christian Unity.

Kirwin was the author of several books, the most recent being "The Inevitable Success," a biography of the late Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor. At the time of his death, he was directing collection of material for an archival center at Loyola College in memory of the late James Cardinal Gibbons of Baltimore.

Tax Relief And Bond Issue Asked For Cumberland

The Mayor and Council voted yesterday to ask the Legislature to speed up action on reclassification of cities according to population in an effort to obtain tax relief and at the same time heard a suggestion from Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill that consideration be given to a bond issue for a number of general improvements necessary here.

Members of council differed in their approach to the problem and one, Water Commissioner G. Ray Light, took an opposite view when he said he questioned where the property owner was going to get money to pay more taxes.

He urged that some method be found where the property owner is relieved of carrying the entire burden and find a solution where "every person in the community should pay."

Hill's suggestion set off the discussion. He said the city is at the crossroads and improvements are needed to repair many streets, alleys and thoroughfares; many areas have open runs which should be encased because they are unsafe and unhealthy; and municipal employees need a raise.

"Our budget cannot afford them," he said, adding "the only answer is that we must remove from the budget certain capital expenditures items and utilize this money for other needed items such as raising the policemen's pay. Still, this step in itself, will not encase those runs in the Mapleside and South Cumberland areas, nor pave and repair all the streets that need it nor deliver water to people on Marion Street and the upper Bedford Road section.

"It is therefore, my suggestion that this council immediately consider the advisability of issuing bonds to raise sufficient funds that will enable us to do these projects.

"We cannot continue to try and pay as we go, for if we do our future is bleak. It makes sense that if our citizens are to enjoy the benefits of the aforementioned projects, they must be prepared to pay for them," Hill said.

He said a bond issue is the only solution and to continue as the city has will get it nowhere in the next four years.

Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder suggested the appeal to the Legislature after saying that efforts to have the tax base broadened in recent years have failed. Both she and Hill said they had requested Comptroller Paul Roedecap to start setting up figures necessary for consideration of a bond issue.

Mayor Earl D. Chaney urged a cautious approach in view of the magnitude of local planning and the scope of the urban renewal program which is underway here. It is for this reason, he said, that he has not pushed more for such projects because he believes urban renewal will include some of them.

Light's statement said the taxpayer faces increases from both the city and county when Memorial Hospital improvement bonds are issued, and another city increase would be likely if the improvement bond issue were passed.

"It is time we try to get legislation passed so we can have some other form of taxation (than on the property owner) otherwise, we are done," Light said.

Hill said the city has the ability to repay a bond issue and noted that by 1976 all bonded debt of the city, with the exception of the sewage treatment plant, will be retired. Present conditions have existed for years, he added, and "Unless we do something, they will keep on existing."

Lee Marple, local businessman, opposed additional burden on the taxpayer in appearing before council, and noted that business here faces a strong challenge from out-of-city shopping centers. The time to cut expenses is now, he said, adding that if something is not done soon the only answer is to merge the city and county because the city people cannot pay for two government operations.

"The county is getting rich and the city is getting poor," he said.

Both Mrs. Roeder and Hill expressed optimism in view of local planning and urban renewal and Mrs. Roeder said she felt business would rather cast its lot with a city that is doing something along these lines rather than with one that does nothing, and says only that it has a good credit rating.

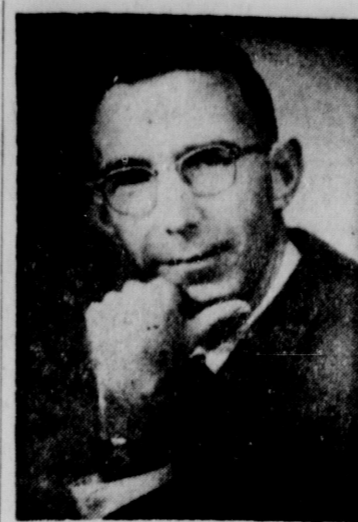

"If we want to stay on the map as a modern city, she said, then the city must do something and she expressed the belief this will be accomplished under present planning and urban renewal plans.

The Mayor and Council added its congratulations to Allegany High School's Maryland Class A basketball champions yesterday.

A statement was read by Mayor Earl D. Chaney and council will send a letter to Coach Chet Payne and his Camper team which won the title Saturday night at College Park.

In addition to the coach and teams, Principal Dr. W. Ardell Haines was also congratulated "for the fine sportsmanship attitude that was displayed at the games x x x and it is our wish that he convey to the student body this message of commendation, since there was a large contingent of followers at Cole Field.

ACC First Bank Depositor

The first depositor yesterday in the First-Second National Bank and Trust Company when it opened for business for the initial time under the merger of the two institutions was Allegany Community College.

Dr. Robert Zimmer, ACC president, and Roy Weed, college business manager, deposited $1,000 for a student loan fund.

The money had been given the junior college by the Cumberland Lions Foundation and will be supplemented in July by grants made through the National Defense Education Act.

William S. Jenkins, president of First-Second moved into his new office in the former Second National building, "which will be the main office of the institution.

Also in the main office are John H. Mosner, senior vice president; Hugh D. Shires, vice president and cashier; George A. Caswell, vice president and manager, installment loan department; Francis H. Deremer, vice president and trust officer.

Albert A. Helmick, assistant vice president, will be manager of the First-Second at 153 Baltimore Street, while Russell S.

house supporting the team and reflecting a fine spirit of good conduct to the benefit of all citizens of Allegany County."

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

Keep Your Chins Down!

Perhaps one of the first signs of the passing years—and the pounds that didn't pass—is the double chin. It's bound to be a discouraging moment when the mirror reflects that your once youthful jawline has given way to extra folds of flesh.

That's the moment to take steps! The best time of all has passed—the time for preventive measures. Since it has, the earlier the better, start working back down to the numbers of chins you started with.

Improving your throat line means attention to several things: Posture is important. Ideal posture includes a "level lead," but drawing your chin in too much will emphasize this particular problem. The best hint to carry in mind is "stretching" the neck as you carry your head high. Avoid dropping your head as much as possible—check in the mirror how badly this affects and encourages the extra chins.

Exercise includes those regular exercises which aid general muscle tone and posture. Spot exercising will help; the head-roll is one of the best. Drop head forward, roll to right shoulder, way back, left shoulder and return—while relaxing the throat with a yawn.

Complexion care: upward massage whenever you apply cream may be followed by brisk patting. For the under-chin and throat, give the flab "the back of your hand" with brisk pats. Another aid to firming is just plain pinching, all along the under-jaw line. It improves circulation, too.

Diet is your best long-range aid. If you don't collect the extra pounds, you avoid dealing with each special spot into which they settle! A double chin is usually a good indication that your weight is a problem. Meal plans which will help without starving you or your family are outlined in "Your Beauty Diet." If you'd like to have this booklet, send 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me, John Robert Powers, in care of this newspaper.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm still burning over that letter signed "Damp Furniture" from the personnel manager who complained about women who cry all over his upholstery.

If this self-styled expert in the field of human relations knew beans about handling people he'd get more work out of the women and fewer tears.

Why do women cry? Occasionally it's because they are nervous and high strung. But usually it's because some jerk with two years seniority is trying to make life unbearable.

A top notch personnel director knows his people. He won't stand by and see faithful, hardworking employees abused by vicious, miserable tyrants who vent their hostilities and anxieties on subordinates.

I've worked in offices for over 25 years and what I've seen in the line of organized backbiting could fill this newspaper. I've never cried but there were times when I could have died.

— DRY-EYED VETERAN
DEAR VET: Thank you for a clear-eyed account from a dry-eyed veteran. Judging from my mail no one is indifferent to the personnel director. They love him or they hate him.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I married too young. I realized early that the marriage was a mistake and since there were no children I insisted on a divorce.

A few years later I met and married a marvelous man. We have two precious little girls, 2 and 4 years old. We couldn't be a happier family.

The question is this: Should we

if it is or if it isn't. We are asking you to help us.

— QUANDARY

Dear Quandary: An adopted child should grow up with the knowledge that he is adopted because he is the central figure in the story. The news that mother had an unsuccessful marriage before she met Daddy can wait until the child is about 10.

The divorce should be mentioned casually, but it's unwise to remain silent about such things — in the hope that no one will mention it. Old skeletons have a way of falling out of closets at the most unexpected moments and the clatter can be terribly embarrassing.

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm still burning over that letter signed "Damp Furniture" from the personnel manager who complained about women who cry all over his upholstery.

If this self-styled expert in the field of human relations knew beans about handling people he'd get more work out of the women and fewer tears.

Retail Credit Charge Debate Renewed

By GEORGE BOWEN

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Fixed charges on retail credit was pushed for 4½ hours Monday by retail merchants granted a rematch with the Maryland Senate.

While the third hearing of this session was being held, Gov. Tawes upstairs was telling a news conference he considered state regulation a good idea.

He compared the situation to savings and loan associations which were not regulated in Maryland until 1961.

However, Gov. Tawes said he didn't know whether the proposed ceilings allowed stores were too high. These were at the root of the arguments which prompted the senate to vote 17-10 against the entire move Feb. 27.

The senators agreed last week to reconsider the question after it was given another going-over by the banking committee. One of the major attempts in committee will be to lower the charges sought by the merchants.

Willing To Sign

The governor took a slightly less strong position on two other bills relating to how much it costs to borrow money. One to hike the interest on large loans from 6 to 8 per cent a year received a narrow unfavorable report by the Senate Banking Committee last Friday, but also is likely to be revived.

The other would revise radically the charges for small loans.

Gov. Tawes said banks favored the 8 per cent interest. As to small loan charges, he said he was leaving the decision up to the legislature, although adding it came from the administrator of the law.

Of all three measures on money, Gov. Tawes said "They're not what we like to refer to as administration bills." But he indicated also he would have no hesitation in signing them if enacted.

The Maryland Council of Retail Merchants brought in two out-of-state experts to try again to convince the senate that service charges merely cover costs—or less.

Some senators claim the stores make a profit on the charges in addition to profit on sales of the merchandise. Sen. James A. Pine, D-Balto County, hammered at the facts stores may borrow money at 6 per cent and would be charging customers the equivalent of 18.

The bone of contention has been to put ceilings on what is known as revolving credit in which continuing purchases are made.

The retailers want to charge 1½ per cent on balances at the end of the month up to $1,000 and 1 per cent on amounts owed over $1,000.

Costs Cited

Kenneth C. Mages of New York, an accountant for several large department stores and chains, testified that only a few stores could even break even on the costs of servicing credit accounts at the 1½ per cent rate. He said the costs of billing and other connected operations exceeds the charge.

Prof. Paul F. Smith of the Wharton School of Finance in Philadelphia offered in evidence a study of 14 finance companies showing their average cost of lending money was 19 per cent.

However, several senators questioned the analogy in regard to department stores which are not supposed to be in the money lending field.

Smith finally conceded "it was a very tricky decision," to fix a rate at which no department stores would lose money.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Sen. Pine said he will propose the revolving credit charges be three-quarters and one-half of one per cent instead of 1½ and one.

Best Biology Teacher To Be Chosen

The National Association of Biology Teachers is conducting its second annual Outstanding Biology Teacher award program on the national level.

Dr. J. David Lockard, University of Maryland, state director for the program, said Friday is the deadline for nominee forms to be submitted, in order to insure consideration of the selection committee.

Besides Dr. Lockard, other members of the selection committee are Dr. R. N. Jones, president of Maryland Biology Teachers Association, Lewin Wheat, science consultant of Maryland, and Dr. R. Paterson, University of Maryland.

The committee will select from three to five finalists from the teachers nominated. The finalists will then be visited in the respective schools and a state winner will be announced late in April. Special recognition ceremonies are planned at that time.

City Is Collecting Rent For Hangars

The City has taken over the collection of hangar rents at the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

Collections for the use of 21 hangars and space in a quonset hut at the airport were taken over by the city on March 1, when Montgomery Air Charter Service, Inc., assumed the five-year lease for the operation of the port.

Bills, payable in advance, are sent the first of each month. Individual hangars rent for $20 a month. Charges vary for planes based in the quonset hut.

Hangar rents are expected to be about $5,000 a year.

South demonstrated it was a simple matter of good economy to afford himself an additional chance for success, particularly where no extra risk was incurred.

The small slam in diamonds was a sound undertaking, and we approve of South's direct tactics during the auction. He has a sound opening bid himself and, when partner opens the bidding and then raises the response to the three level, there is a distinct slam aroma in the air. With adequate controls in the side suits, there seems little point in bidding around the clock merely to exchange information which may prove useful to the opponents. When South's inquiry revealed that the partnership was not off two fast tricks, he proceeded to six diamonds.

Officers Hershberger and Kenneth Henry, who were investigating the first accident, had to jump out of the way to keep from being injured.

Deneen was charged with operating a motor vehicle at speed greater than reasonable under existing road conditions. The Emerick's 18-month-old daughter was slightly injured.

In another accident during the snowstorm yesterday, a city police cruiser was knocked out of commission when it was struck by another car near the intersection of Virginia Avenue and King Street.

Officer James Swann was driving the cruiser on King Street and approached the intersection. A cab traveling along Virginia Avenue slowed down to allow the cruiser to enter Virginia Avenue.

Meanwhile a car operated by Paul F. Donahue of Knob Road, RFD 3, city, began passing the cab. He noticed the cruiser and applied his brakes.

The car slid about 90 feet into the cruiser, said police.

Donahue was charged with speed greater than reasonable under existing conditions in the accident about 4:30 p.m.

Judge Walsh read a telegram from Most Rev. Lawrence J. Shehan, archbishop of Baltimore, congratulating the campaign workers on their success.

The telegram read: "Dear Mr. Ort: Congratulations on work well done. You have every reason to be proud of your success. My compliments to your committee and to all the members of your community for their splendid efforts. My gratitude to you for the fine work you have done. Please convey to the Sisters my pledge of prayers for the success of this most important project for all of Western Maryland."

Mr. Ort said, "Every dollar over and above the goal will be put into the newest and most modern improvements for the new hospital."

One big contributor, previously unannounced, was Hercules Powder Company, which operates Allegany Ballistics Laboratory for the Navy. John C. Foster, ABL plant manager, said Hercules is giving $15,000 to the campaign. "because I love these people. I service organized by Jane Delano plays a vital part in the American Red Cross program and the nursing service of local chapters of ARC.

Mrs. Lindsay commented, "it is fitting that we honor Jane Delano during the month of March, our traditional Red Cross month as proclaimed by the President, and it is fortunate that we can now use this month to acquaint people with the many, many services Red Cross provides instead of having to concentrate on how to organize a fund drive."

The executive secretary explained that since Red Cross, a national organization, became an agency of County United Fund, "we've been saving money and time and we've been able to concentrate on our real purpose, providing service, such as Jane Delano's nursing service."

During March, instead of conducting a door-to-door fund drive, Red Cross is conducting a "thank you" campaign for givers to the 1962 CUF drive simultaneously with an information drive to spread knowledge of Red Cross services.

COMFORT SOUND

HEARING INSTRUMENT DEVELOPED

A new hearing instrument just introduced by World Famous Telex Laboratories brings a totally new comfort to those who need hearing help. It is especially for those who have never used a hearing aid, or those who could not become accustomed to the loud background noises of ordinary hearing aids.

New, super tiny electronic circuits eliminate most unwanted noise to allow you to hear clearly as nature intended. Speech and music are clear as a bell when you wear this new aid. Harsh loud sounds that can cause such discomfort with ordinary hearing aids are automatically softened with Telex COMFORT SOUND CONTROL.

The new Telex Comfort Sound Instruments are especially valuable in correction of nerve deafness, and the problem of those who hear but don't understand. It allows you to understand words spoken softly from across the room, in noisy crowds, or on a busy street with noisy traffic. Best of all, the new Comfort Sound instruments are hardly noticeable.

Come in for a free trial with absolutely no obligation. Helping others to hear clearly is our business. Come in today to Telex Hearing Center, 30 N. Centre St. or phone 722-8000 for a private appointment.

Willing To Sign

The governor took a slightly less strong position on two other bills relating to how much it costs to borrow money. One to hike the interest on large loans from 6 to 8 per cent a year received a narrow unfavorable report by the Senate Banking Committee last Friday, but also is likely to be revived.

The other would revise radically the charges for small loans.

Gov. Taves said bankers favored the 8 per cent interest. As to small loan charges, he said he was leaving the decision up to the legislature, although adding a study of 14 finance companies it came from the administrator of the law.

Of all three measures on money, Gov. Taves said "They're not what we like to refer to as administration bills." But he indicated also he would have no hesitancy in signing them if enacted.

The Maryland Council of Retail Merchants brought in two out-of-state experts to try again to convince the senate that service charges merely cover costs—or less.

Some senators claim the stores make a profit on the charges in addition to profit on sales of the merchandise. Sen. James A. Pine, D-Balto County, hammered at the facts stores may borrow money at 6 per cent and would be charging customers the equivalent of 18 per cent on amounts owed over $1,000.

Costs Cited

Kenneth C. Mages of New York, an accountant for several large department stores and chains, testified that only a few stores could even break even on the costs of servicing credit accounts at the 1 1/2 per cent rate. He said the costs of billing and other connected operations exceeds the charge.

Prof. Paul F. Smith of the Wharton School of Finance in Philadelphia offered in evidence a study of 14 finance companies showing their average cost of lending money was 19 per cent.

However, several senators questioned the analogy in regard to department stores which are not supposed to be in the money lending field.

Smith finally conceded "it was a very tricky decision," to fix a rate at which no department stores would lose money.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Sen. Pine said he will propose the revolving credit charges be three-quarters and one-half of one per cent instead of 1 1/2 and one.

Best Biology Teacher To Be Chosen

The National Association of Biology Teachers is conducting its second annual Outstanding Biology Teacher award program on the national level.

Dr. J. David Lockard, University of Maryland, state director for the program, said Friday is the deadline for nominee forms to be submitted, in order to insure consideration of the selection committee.

Besides Dr. Lockard, other members of the selection committee are Dr. R. N. Jones, president of Maryland Biology Teachers Association, Lewin Wheat, science consultant of Maryland, and Dr. R. Paterson, University of Maryland.

The committee will select from three to five finalists from the teachers nominated. The finalists will then be visited in the respective schools and a state winner will be announced late in April. Special recognition ceremonies are planned at that time.

City Is Collecting Rent For Hangars

The City has taken over the collection of hangar rents at the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

Collections for the use of 21 hangars and space in a quonset hut at the airport were taken over by the city on March 1, when Montgomery Air Charter Service, Inc., assumed the five-year lease for the operation of the port.

Bills, payable in advance, are sent the first of each month. Individual hangars rent for $20 a month. Charges vary for planes based in the quonset hut.

Hangar rents are expected to be about $5,000 a year.

South demonstrated in the play of today's hand that it was a simple matter of good economy to afford himself an additional chance for success, particularly where no extra risk was incurred.

The small slam in diamonds was a sound undertaking, and we approve of South's direct tactics during the auction. He has a sound opening bid himself and, when partner opens the bidding and then raises the response to the three level, there is a distinct slam aroma in the air. With adequate controls in the side suits, there seems little point in bidding around the clock merely to exchange information which may prove useful to the opponents.

When South's inquiry revealed that the partnership was not off two fast tricks, he proceeded to six diamonds.

West opened the queen of spades which rode around the declarer's ace. He saw at once that, if both red suits divided in a reasonable manner, he had 12 top tricks. Altho a three-two division of five outstanding cards is the customary occurrence, South was unwilling to put all of his eggs in a single basket if an additional chance were available.

Since diamonds must be assumed to break evenly for the slam to succeed, declarer decided to ruff out one spade to develop an 11th trick in the event that the heart suit did not respond favorably. If such proved to be the case, South might still be able to put pressure on the opponent who had the long hearts.

As a preliminary move declarer led a small club at trick two, and East's king captured North's queen. South trumped the club return, and then he played the king and another spade ruffing in the dummy. The trumps were drawn in three rounds and, before testing the heart suit, declarer proceeded to play off two extra diamonds to see what would happen.

North's last four cards were the A-K-Q-9 of hearts, while South held the three of spades and small hearts. When the final diamond was led, East had four hearts and the high spade, with one discard still to be made. Since he must hang onto the hearts to protect against the dummy's holding, he was forced to surrender his spade honor, and declarer's small spade won the fulfilling trick.

parked car, pinning Emerick under the steering wheel.

Officers Hershberger and Kenneth Henry, who were investigating the first accident, had to jump out of the way to keep from being injured.

Deneen was charged with operating a motor vehicle at speed greater than reasonable under existing road conditions. The Emerick's 18-month-old daughter was slightly injured.

In another accident during the snowstorm yesterday, a city police cruiser was knocked out of commission when it was struck by another car near the intersection of Virginia Avenue and King Street.

Officer James Swann was driving the cruiser on King Street and approached the intersection. A cab traveling along Virginia Avenue slowed down to allow the cruiser to enter Virginia Avenue. Meanwhile a car operated by Paul F. Donahue of Knob Road, RFD 3, city, began passing the cab. He noticed the cruiser and applied his brakes.

The car slid about 90 feet into the cruiser, said police.

Donahue was charged with speed greater than reasonable under existing conditions in the accident about 4:30 p.m.

Award plaques were presented to leaders in the drive, including Judge Walsh, John J. McMullen, and William E. Crooks, co-chairman of the industry division; Attorney General Thomas B. Finan and William H. Oburn, co-chairman of the healing and mercy division; Senator J. Glenn Beall, Raymond B. O'Rourke, public relations manager for the hospital; Drs. Leo H. Ley and L. "Life Is Worth Living"

Speaking briefly were Rev. Seth Morrow, former pastor of First Presbyterian Church here, and Salvation Army Lt. Col. Paul S. Thronburg, both of whom praised the community and Mr. Ort in particular for the success of the campaign.

Sister Mary Richard, administrator of Sacred Heart Hospital, who won a standing ovation when she was introduced, said the "Life Is Worth Living" — the title of a television program Bishop Sheen conducted for several years.

Judge Walsh read a telegram from Most Rev. Lawrence J. Shehan, archbishop of Baltimore, congratulating the campaign workers on their success.

The telegram read: "Dear Mr. Ort: Congratulations on work well done. You have every reason to be proud of your success. My compliments to your committee and to all the members of your community for their splendid efforts. My gratitude to you for the fine work you have done. Please convey to the Sisters my pledge of prayers for the success of this most important project for all of Western Maryland."

Mr. Ort said, "Every dollar over and above the goal will be put into the newest and most modern improvements for the new hospital."

One big contributor, previously unannounced, was Hercules Powder Company, which operates Allegany Ballistics Laboratory for the Navy. John C. Foster, ABL plant manager, said Hercules is giving $15,000 to the campaign, because I love these people. I service organized by Jane Delano plays a vital part in the American Red Cross program and the nursing service of local chapters of ARC.

Mrs. Lindsay commented, "It is fitting that we honor Jane Delano during the month of March, our traditional Red Cross month as proclaimed by the President, and it is fortunate that we can now use this month to acquaint people with the many, many services Red Cross provides instead of having to concentrate on how to organize a fund drive."

The executive secretary explained that since Red Cross, a national organization, became an agency of County United Fund, "we've been saving money and time and we've been able to concentrate on our real purpose, providing service, such as Jane Delano's nursing service."

During March, instead of conducting a door-to-door fund drive, Red Cross is conducting a "thank you" campaign for givers to the 1962 CUF drive simultaneously with an information drive to spread knowledge of Red Cross services.

Patents Play A Vital Role

One of the more disturbing stretches of the imagination to spring from Johnny-come-lately political philosophers in recent years is the idea that patents somehow impede, not promote, economic expansion and thus should be prohibited or at least greatly curtailed.

Tennessee's Senator Kefauver played this theme to the hilt in his investigation of the drug industry. He even succeeded in extracting a bill from a Senate antitrust committee which would have slashed the patent life on drugs from 17 years to three. This provision later was dropped.

A patent is nothing more than a guarantee to an inventor that if he is successful in developing a new product both useful and wanted, he is assured at least a better chance of recovering his initial costs of experimentation and a fair profit from his efforts before competition develops than he would have been able to do without this safeguard.

Without such a tentative guarantee (a patent in itself is worthless if the invention is not accepted by the consumer, and many more inventions meet rejection than acceptance), how eager would an individual or a corporation be to invest time and funds in a product which might take years to develop but only minutes for an alert competitor to copy?

Patents do not create the monopoly envisioned by their opponents. One need only look at the variety of antihistamines available at a drug counter to refute this argument. A patent protects an inventor from outright appropriation of his idea, nothing more.

It is from the incentive to explore, to investigate, to venture that public benefit is derived. This basic foundation of the successful American economic system seems to have escaped the attention of that handful of public officials which would replace enterprise with suspicion and restriction, and has the gall to cloak it in the guise of the common good.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

Let's Have Southern Courage

Coming home from the South by the route that takes you along the outer-most edge of North America, you see from the deck of the old Norfolk-Kiptopeke ferry boat that one of the great engineering marvels is now nearing completion. It is the 23-mile long Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel, which will span the open stretch of Atlantic Ocean between Virginia's Cape Henry and Cape Charles. And not so many miles from there to the north, as you drive your car over a small bridge, you note that one of the earliest engineering accomplishments of the American nation, the open ditch that connects the Delaware and Chesapeake bays, is flowing there beneath you.

The newest structure has taken the most intricate sort of cooperation between political agencies and private contractors specializing in such things as the laying of steel, the sinking of caissons and the pumping of tons of sand. The oldest structure was dug by hand labor. Yet, in its day, the Delaware-Chesapeake Canal was just as much of a miracle as the 200-million-dollar combination of bridges, tunnels and artificial islands that will shortly enable trucks to thunder from New York to Norfolk and the Carolinas without stopping for anything but gas.

The Delaware-Chesapeake Canal was a miracle because it was the first instance of economic and cultural permeation in a world that wasn't sure it wanted any such thing. Out of the first efforts of Maryland and Delaware to do something to make commerce easier between them came the Annapolis Convention, which was the precursor of the Constitutional Convention of 1787. The old canal that was originally dug as the result of an agreement between states that weren't yet part of a union stands as the first monument to something that has gone on with only momentary interruption ever since George Washington and Alexander Hamilton decided that it was silly for each separate colony to live by itself.

Today, as a result of the standardization that the new Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel will hurry along at a still faster pace, the permeation of culture is drowning out practically all the significant old-time regional differences.

If you talk with Anthony Harrigan in Charleston, S. C., he will tell you that his Carolina compatriots are tired of batting their heads against the wall in the efforts to stem integration. Hence the comparative lack of fuss about the enrollment of a Negro at Clemson College. A generation ago, says Mr. Harrigan, Southern novelists found significant themes in the tension between the old local and the new national ways. But today the problems facing individuals in the South are more or less like the problems that face Americans anywhere—and the South is no longer producing its distinctive writers.

Little things testify to the permeation of culture. If you are an ice skater, you can find modern ice rinks in Carolina cities and in Fort Lauderdale and Hollywood in Florida. Maybe it won't be long before they have artificial snow-making machines creating ski resorts in the Great Smoky Mountains.

In this matter of the permeation of culture, the drift has largely been from North to South. True enough, the first supermarket—the Piggly Wiggly chain store—was a Southern creation, but the Dixie suburbs that are served by really modern supermarkets have, by that token, a Northern flavor. In one important respect, however, the South hasn't given way to Northern attitudes. The deepest impression I have carried home from a brief period before the Mason-Dixon line that was made memorable by many conversations is that Southerners far surpass Northerners in their political realism and in their feeling for self-preservation.

The South is demonstrably alive to the Cuban portent as people in the North are not. Where the Northern "liberal" puts his trust—or his hopes—in words, the Southerner knows that if your enemy has a preponderance of power he will not quibble about using it against you whenever the moment is propitious. Knowing their own constituents, and consulting their own sense of realism as well, Southern Senators have been taking the lead in complaining of President Kennedy's indecisiveness on Cuba and in keeping our armaments up to snuff.

The permeation of culture obviously is destined to go on. But if it must end by making attitudes the same everywhere, let us hope that the Southern instinct for self-preservation will have at least some effect on the North.

How Can He Win With Those Odds?

Is Businesslike Way In Government Impossible?

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON—These are days when, judging by the debates and discussions here, it is supposed to be very difficult to cut expenses in government. Yet also every business comes to grips with this problem right along.

There are at least three ways to keep expenses down. One is to stop adding new expenses. Another is to stop expenditures that are no longer needed or that can be postponed for a while. A third step is to consolidate several items into a single expenditure or lesser amount that accomplishes the same general purpose either temporarily or permanently.

Government spenders usually reject all three devices. For, in government, a businesslike approach is supposed to be impossible. The first consideration usually is whether the cut in expenditures will cost the Administration any votes in key states in the next election. The next commandment is that appropriations for certain areas must not be diminished lest Senators or Representatives from that locality be alienated and their support lost to the Administration in its effort to get "welfare" legislation passed. A third rule is that, if a subsidy has been granted, it must be continued even after it has outlived its practical benefit to the country as a whole, and that, if a previous Administration or Congress has authorized an expenditure, the money must almost always be spent irrespective of new circumstances or new needs for public funds.

President Kennedy in his news conference this week indicated that he is waiting for his critics in Congress to come forth with a list of items that they would cut from the budget. Then, of course, the political twist will be given by the Administration to the items chosen. Mr. Kennedy at the same news conference, for example, said that "it has been suggested that we cut school lunches, that we cut aids to dependent children." He called for a bill of particulars and declared that "we have been generalized enough." Yet, in the next sentence, he questioned in generalized terms whether the economists are "going to cut these kind of programs which are essential to a better life for our people." He added:

"Are we going to make a determination that we are going to be permanently second-best in space? Because if you cut the space programs substantially, that is what you are writing into law, and I thought the United States had made a commitment that we were not going to be second permanently, and we are not going to be second in the field of national security."

But who is to tell the people that postponing for a year or two the spending of some of these billions on efforts to get to the moon might be a sensible thing to do? It could help save the purchasing power of the dollar from a serious drop due to the inflationary result of large deficits.

The impression being conveyed, moreover, is that only the Republicans want to cut the government's expenses. It happens, however, that Senator Willis Robertson of Virginia, chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, is a Democrat who has served 30 years in Congress. In a speech to the Senate on Thursday, he said:

"I have consistently opposed pump-priming and deficit financing. . . I have diligently examined the budget for fiscal year 1964. . . I propose to indicate how the budget can be reduced at least $6 billion to accompany

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathart

LOW AUTO LICENSE — The nation's capital is like most other states whose prominent persons desire to demonstrate their status with low auto tag numbers. But in Washington things are tougher because of the concentration of big shots.

The 535 members of the Senate and House tend to ease the situation somewhat, as almost without exception they drive cars carrying tags from their own state. But the entire Executive Branch of government with its myriad departments and agencies have chiefs and sub-chiefs clamoring for these low-number tags. The District of Columbia authorities allot the first 1,250 numbers for this purpose and annually face the problem of assigning them. It's that time of year again in Washington.

Federal Aviation head Najeeb

E. Halaby is a fine example of what goes on. Halaby got a low number, 216, but it wasn't the one he asked for. He wanted 777. His letter setting forth the reasons for his request is probably typical of the things that Washington city authorities must cope with.

"A poor memory and a desire to achieve a status symbol," wrote Halaby, "has caused me, along with 500 of my most intimate Washington friends, to request a small, lucky number like 777."

He signed the letter, "Hopefully and slightly sheepishly."

The Washington Auto Tag Bureau won't say why Halaby got 216, but they are willing to say that the number he asked for already had been spoken by "someone else." We'll know who that someone is in a few weeks when the proud owner bolts the new tags to his car.

Mice Open New Avenues In Leprosy Research

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

The discovery opens up two important avenues for those specializing in this ancient disease. Mice can be given drugs to determine their effect on leprosy bacilli in the foot pads. This offers an excellent and rapid screening technique for trying a large number of antiseptic chemicals and antibiotics. Different anti-leprosy vaccines are being tested against the organisms cultivated in the mouse foot pads.

Most of the present vaccines are prepared from tubercle bacilli because the bacteria that cause leprosy and tuberculosis belong to the same family. The disease is contagious but prolonged contact usually is needed to pass along the condition. Fewer than 5 per cent of those living in the same household as an infected person develop the disease.

The malady starts as a small round slightly elevated spot, lighter in color than the surrounding skin. The nodules grow larger and newer blemishes appear. The causative germs live in the cells of these infected areas and spread slowly along the nerves to the spinal cord.

Most of the destruction to hands, feet, and other extremities stems from nerve damage rather than from direct involvement of these tissues. When nerves are affected, the skin becomes numb. The colorless spots and changes in skin sensitivity are early manifestations.

Leprosy is a world-wide problem but 80 per cent of the cases are said to exist in Africa and Asia. There are fewer than 2,000 victims in the United States but leprosy could become a more serious problem because of our increasing contacts with tropical nations. For this reason we need better anti-leprosy drugs and vaccines.

Joe Kennedy Undercuts His Son's Administration; Johnson Makes Hit

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Newton Minow, the Federal Communications chairman, who has hounded the networks to improve programming, went in to see President Kennedy the other day to tell him he was getting out.

"Why are you quitting so soon?" asked JFK.

"Your father told me to," replied Minow.

He referred to the fact that Joseph P. Kennedy is a believer in going in and out of government jobs in a hurry. He served for two years as chairman of the Security and Exchange Commission, then for a brief period as chairman of the Maritime Commission, then briefly as ambassador to Great Britain. But in giving this advice, Joe Kennedy was undercutting the Administration of his son, who wants men to serve out their terms and has a hard time getting qualified men for tough government jobs.

Note—Minow's successor on the FCC will be picked by Attorney General Kennedy. Bobby is watching the TV networks carefully, wants a commission which will take a cue from the White House. Collins Scared Off

Ex-Governor Leroy Collins of Florida, now head of the National Association of Broadcasters, hasn't been scared off in his drive to eliminate radio-TV cigarette commercials for juveniles.

Collins kicked up a terrific furor among broadcasters when he proposed banning cigarette commercials in the early daylight and evening hours. He almost got fired. But astute John Hayes, President of WTOP, reminded fellow broadcasters what the public reaction would be if Collins lost his job over this issue.

Meanwhile Collins is getting strong support from two sources: 1.—Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., brother of Secretary of the Interior Udall, who has proposed banning not only cigarettes but all tobacco commercials—also beer and wine ads during the early TV and radio hours.

2.—Dr. Samuel Wishik, professor of maternal and child health at the University of Pittsburgh, who has written a dynamite-laden report on cigarettes for the medical journal "Pediatrics" which is enough to make any expectant mother swear off smoking.

"Recent studies both in England and this country," writes Dr. Wishik, "show that when women continue to smoke cigarettes during the last 3 months of pregnancy, the average weight of the baby at birth is reduced as much as a whole pound."

"This means for the typical 7 pound baby, that he was deprived of one-seventh of the nourishment he should have received from his mother."

"Do we have to use our unborn babies as guinea pigs to demonstrate psychological effects that are less obvious in other situations?" asked Dr. Wishik.

"How loud does the warning bell have to ring to get past the emotional earplugs of smokers?"

Teen Aged Smokers

Dr. Wishik, who is chairman of the maternal and child health section of the American Public Health Association, is one of the most respected authorities on the health of children and pregnant women. He states that Madison Avenue has a heavy hand in making cigarette smoking "a common practice among nine, ten, and eleven-year-olds."

"Cigarette advertising nowadays, especially on television, plays up the two elements of sex and maturity to sell its product. Smoking by young people is glamorized, made to seem sexually attractive and in the male equated with virility. She lures through the spiraling wisps of smoke; he wears a tattoo. A fellow and a girl who do not smoke are not grown up. The emphasis is on 'moving into a man's world' and 'giving up that kid stuff.'"

"More than thirty years ago the tobacco industry contributed to establishing cigarette smoking among American women by billboard displays of beautiful women smoking cigarettes with captions urging them to reach for a cigarette instead of candy," Dr. Wishik says.

"An appeal was made to their concern about overweight. The women were fooled. Today they have the cigarette and no less worry about weight. We believe that Madison Avenue is giving American youth a will-o'-the-wisp illusion that they will achieve greater sex appeal and confidence in feeling grown up," Dr. Wishik warns. "They will attain neither just by smoking, but will end up with a habit ingrained for the remainder of their lives. This is a false bill of goods," warns one of the most noted authorities on public health in the United States.

Governor Collins plans to use this material in his continued war against early TV-radio cigarette commercials.

LBJ's Junket

State Department officials were mum about it, but they were worried about Vice President Johnson's trip to the Dominican Republic. There had been a lot of bitterness in that dictator-ruled country over the manner in which junketing Congressmen and members of the Eisenhower Administration had scratched Trujillo's back and fed out of his hand.

LBJ's flight to the Dominican Republic for President Bosch's inauguration was the first trip since the stream of Congressmen who came at Trujillo's expense. So State Department officials crossed their fingers for fear of demonstrations.

However, here is the restricted cablegram received by the State Department from the U. S. embassy in the Dominican Republic: "Embassy considers Vice President's visit outstanding success both from point of view public relations and impact on new GDDR (Government of Dominican Republic) reception accorded him by crowds of ordinary Dominicans and his response thereto constituted in embassy's opinion a triumph for U. S. in Dom. Rep. (Dominican Republic)."

America In Paris

By John Crosby

PARIS

The outskirts of every city in the world are beginning to look alike, full of badly built rectangular, called new housing. It's fashionable to call them the slums of the future, but I'm not sure any of these buildings will last long enough to be future slums. They're slums right now, almost from the day they're built.

The other day I drove out with a French friend to Marly Grandes Terres, a suburb to the west of Paris which he calls French America to distinguish it from Sarcelle, a suburb to the north which he calls French Russia.

"Sarcelle is a more Russian type of construction. That is, blocks and blocks of buildings all alike, all heavy. Solid. Depressing. I can't prove they're the Russian type but I feel it," said my French friend.

We started at the Etoile, rimmed with those splendid classic 19th century edifices. Now these buildings designed as dwellings are largely office buildings, as are so many others in the center of Paris. And the people they were designed to house? They live in Marly Grandes Terres, or Sarcelle, Russian suburbs. Or American suburbs.

We drove out the Avenue de la Defense. "All this area will be skyscrapers," said my French friend. "There is the first one, the Esso building." It's blue glass, square, looks like all the other blue glass square office buildings in the world, which is to say not bad. The area is already messy with change—some lovely peeling buildings dating back to the seventeenth century, a good many houses built in Louis XIV's time. "They'll all come down," said my friend. "All this has been carefully planned."

We passed a two-story store out of the seventeenth century and a block further a 17-story apartment building out of the day before yesterday—stucco and already prematurely old. From the 17th century to 17 stories—urban history in a nutshell. We passed Malmaison, the graceful country house Napoleon gave Josephine and afterwards the late Mistinguette's house. (The ageless dancer with the lovely legs.) Then the waterwheel which still pumps water for the fountains of Versailles, and 40 minutes after we left the Etoile, we were at Marly Grandes Terres.

It's on a hill overlooking the Seine valley, an enormous area of rectangular ugly buildings on a lovely site separated by great well-planned stretches of lawns, dotted with fountains and shrubs. Fine landscaping. Cheap ugly buildings, but probably comfortable and modern inside. But how can modern architects face themselves in the mirror when all over the world they are building edifices designed to fall apart in 20 years? Even the mud huts in the Euphrates Valley 7,500 years ago lasted longer.

At the center of this immense area, housing perhaps 20,000, is the supermarket, quite handsome. "Like Milwaukee? Or Denver? Or anywhere?" said my French friend. "I'm from Milwaukee." I said, "We don't have anything this big."

We walked through the central plaza. Quite handsome. Well-planned. Fountains. No cars. Women hanging on to small children gossiping, like market places everywhere in every age. Looked in the windows of the supermarket. Kellogg's Corn Flakes. Heinz Sandwich Spread. Coca-Cola. "Anglo-Saxon tastes are growing," said the Frenchman. "Anglo-Saxon" is an epithet now. Next to the supermarket, a brand new school. "Everything one needs here," said the Frenchman. Everything except work. For that the breadwinner has to get to Paris.

We drove to Saint-Germain, a truly self-contained village (one lives and works there) which has hardly changed in 200, built around the chateau with its heavy stone walls, its moat and round tower, its lovely formal gardens. Then we drove a few miles to Louveciennes, past the House of the Flying Heart, the home of the Count of Paris who would be King of France if there were a King of France.

We inspected a truly lovely chateau built around 1400, towards the end of the Middle Ages, still lovely, still a dwelling. In the center of Louveciennes, around which the community huddles, there's a church, Saint-Martin.

It's just two miles from the supermarket around which Marly Grandes Terres huddles. Well, we worship at different shrines, the ancients and us moderns.

I have no complaints about the modern worship of materialism, but I think we might worship in better buildings.

The French newspapers recently have been full of dark thoughts about Paris in the year 2,000 when it will have a population of 20 million, a Paris of skyscrapers, ringed with Russian and American suburbs.

"But nothing seems to change," said the Frenchman. "Not so long ago we complained about the misery and squalor of our lives. Now we have television and skyscrapers and supermarkets. And we complain about that. Same complaints. I think the problem is humanity itself."

Patents Play A Vital Role

One of the more disturbing stretches of the imagination to spring from Johnny-come-lately political philosophers in recent years is the idea that patents somehow impede, not promote, economic expansion and thus should be prohibited or at least greatly curtailed.

Tennessee's Senator Kefauver played this theme to the hilt in his investigation of the drug industry. He even succeeded in extracting a bill from a Senate antitrust committee which would have slashed the patent life on drugs from 17 years to three. This provision later was dropped.

A patent is nothing more than a guarantee to an inventor that if he is successful in developing a new product both useful and wanted, he is assured at least a better chance of recovering his initial costs of experimentation and a fair profit from his efforts before competition develops than he would have been able to do without this safeguard.

Without such a tentative guarantee (a patent in itself is worthless if the invention is not accepted by the consumer, and many more inventions meet rejection than acceptance), how eager would an individual or a corporation be to invest time and funds in a product which might take years to develop but only minutes for an alert competitor to copy?

Patents do not create the monopoly envisioned by their opponents. One need only look at the variety of antihistamines available at a drug counter to refute this argument. A patent protects an inventor from outright appropriation of his idea, nothing more.

It is from the incentive to explore, to investigate, to venture that public benefit is derived. This basic foundation of the successful American economic system seems to have escaped the attention of that handful of public officials which would replace enterprise with suspicion and restriction, and has the gall to cloak it in the guise of the common good.

These Days

By John Chamberlain

Let's Have Southern Courage

Coming home from the South by the route that takes you along the outer-most edge of North America, you see from the deck of the old Norfolk-Kiptopeke ferry boat that one of the great engineering marvels is now nearing completion. It is the 23-mile long Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel, which will span the open stretch of Atlantic Ocean between Virginia's Cape Henry and Cape Charles. And not so many miles from there to the north, as you drive your car over a small bridge, you note that one of the earliest engineering accomplishments of the American nation, the open ditch that connects the Delaware and Chesapeake bays, is flowing there beneath you.

The newest structure has taken the most intricate sort of cooperation between political agencies and private contractors specializing in such things as the laying of steel, the sinking of caissons and the pumping of tons of sand. The oldest structure was dug by hand labor. Yet, in its day, the Delaware-Chesapeake Canal was just as much of a miracle as the 200-million-dollar combination of bridges, tunnels and artificial islands that will shortly enable trucks to thunder from New York to Norfolk and the Carolinas without stopping for anything but gas.

The Delaware-Chesapeake Canal was a miracle because it was the first instance of economic and cultural permeation in a world that wasn't sure it wanted any such thing. Out of the first efforts of Maryland and Delaware to do something to make commerce easier between them came the Annapolis Convention, which was the precursor of the Constitutional Convention of 1787. The old canal that was originally dug as the result of an agreement between states that weren't yet part of a union stands as the first monument to something that has gone on with only momentary interruption ever since George Washington and Alexander Hamilton decided that it was silly for each separate colony to live by itself.

Today, as a result of the standardization that the new Chesapeake Bay Bridge Tunnel will hurry along at a still faster pace, the permeation of culture is drowning out practically all the significant old-time regional differences.

If you talk with Anthony Harrigan in Charleston, S. C., he will tell you that his Carolina compatriots are tired of battling their heads against the wall in the efforts to stem integration. Hence the comparative lack of fuss about the enrollment of a Negro at Clemson College. A generation ago, says Mr. Harrigan, Southern novelists found significant themes in the tension between the old local and the new national ways. But today the problems facing individuals in the South are more or less like the problems that face Americans anywhere—and the South is no longer producing its distinctive writers.

Little things testify to the permeation of culture. If you are an ice skater, you can find modern ice rinks in Carolina cities and in Fort Lauderdale and Hollywood in Florida. Maybe it won't be long before they have artificial snow-making machines creating ski resorts in the Great Smoky Mountains.

In this matter of the permeation of culture, the drift has largely been from North to South. True enough, the first supermarket—the Piggly Wiggly chain store—was a Southern creation, but the Dixie suburbs that are served by really modern supermarkets have, by that token, a Northern flavor. In one important respect, however, the South hasn't given way to Northern attitudes. The deepest impression I have carried home from a brief period below the Mason-Dixon line that was made memorable by many conversations is that Southerners far surpass Northerners in their political realism and in their feeling for self-preservation.

The South is demonstrably alive to the Cuban portent as people in the North are not. Where the Northern "liberal" puts his trust—or his hopes—in words, the Southerner knows that if your enemy has a preponderance of power he will not quibble about using it against you whenever the moment is propitious. Knowing their own constituents, and consulting their own sense of realism as well, Southern Senators have been taking the lead in complaining of President Kennedy's indecisiveness on Cuba and in keeping our armaments out to snuff.

The permeation of culture obviously is destined to go on. But if it must end by making attitudes the same everywhere, let us hope that the Southern instinct for self-preservation will have at least some effect on the North.

How Can He Win With Those Odds?

Is Businesslike Way In Government Impossible?

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON—These are days when, judging by the debates and discussions here, it is supposed to be very difficult to cut expenses in government. Yet also every business comes to grips with this problem right along.

There are at least three ways to keep expenses down. One is to stop adding new expenses. Another is to stop expenditures that are no longer needed or that can be postponed for a while. A third step is to consolidate several items into a single expenditure or lesser amount that accomplishes the same general purpose either temporarily or permanently.

Government spends usually reject all three devices. For, in government, a businesslike approach is supposed to be impossible. The first consideration usually is whether the cut in expenditures will cost the Administration any votes in key states in the next election. The next commandment is that appropriations for certain areas must not be diminished lest Senators or Representatives from that locality be alienated and their support lost to the Administration in its effort to get "welfare" legislation passed. A third rule is that, if a subsidy has been granted, it must be continued even after it has outlived its practical benefit to the country as a whole, and that, if a previous Administration or Congress has authorized an expenditure, the money must almost always be spent irrespective of new circumstances or new needs for public funds.

President Kennedy in his news conference this week indicated that he is waiting for his critics in Congress to come forth with a list of items that they would cut from the budget. Then, of course, the political twist will be given by the Administration to the items chosen. Mr. Kennedy at the same news conference, for example, said that "it has been suggested that we cut school lunches, that we cut aids to dependent children." He called for a bill of particulars and declared that "we have been generous enough." Yet, in the next sentence, he questioned in generalized terms whether the economists are "going to cut these kind of programs which are essential to a better life for our people." He added:

"Are we going to make a determination that we are going to be permanently second-best in space? Because if you cut the space programs substantially, that is what you are writing into law, and I thought the United States had made a commitment that we were not going to be second permanently, and we are not going to be second in the field of national security."

But who is to tell the people that postponing for a year or two the spending of some of these billions on efforts to get to the moon might be a sensible thing to do? It could help save the purchasing power of the dollar from a serious drop due to the inflationary result of large deficits.

The impression being conveyed, moreover, is that only the Republicans want to cut the government's expenses. It happens, however, that Senator Willis Robertson of Virginia, chairman of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee, is a Democrat who has served 30 years in Congress. In a speech to the Senate on Thursday, he said:

"I have consistently opposed pump-priming and deficit financing. . . . I have diligently examined the budget for fiscal year 1964. . . . I propose to indicate how the budget can be reduced at least $6 billion to accompany any tax cut which may be passed in order to move towards the goal of a sound fiscal policy."

"In the area of non-defense spending, reductions can be made in proposed new spending programs, several existing loan programs, civilian research programs, foreign-aid spending, and civilian personnel expansion."

"Reductions can be achieved in spending requests for new programs because their need is not established as being sufficiently vital to justify an increase in the deficit, their cost impact on the 1964 and later budgets is by no means fully determined, and insofar as the objectives of these programs may be desirable, they can be met privately or by state or local governments."

"I desire to make it crystal clear that in making suggestions for eliminating or curtailing some of the President's spending proposals, I am acting as a loyal Democrat who has never left his party and who wants to help and not harm his party's success in the elections of 1964."

The Virginia Senator favors a tax cut but thinks a substantial reduction in spending "can be made at the same time. There are many Democrats in Congress who feel as he does."

The impact of the tax discussion on business confidence thus far has not been salutary. Although the country has been told, for instance, that corporations will get a lower tax rate, the truth is that the percentage of income flowing out of the companies to the government will be higher than before. It will be 1969 before companies with an excess of $100,000 a year in taxes will get any real reduction in the outflow of cash to the government under the Administration's program. In the next five years, therefore, businesses face a penalty instead of a benefit from a tax cut. That's just one of many reasons why the whole tax program proposed by the Administration has aroused members of Congress of both parties.

Joe Kennedy Undercuts His Son's Administration; Johnson Makes Hit

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—Newton Minow, the Federal Communications chairman, who has hounded the networks to improve programming, went in to see President Kennedy the other day to tell him he was getting out.

"Why are you quitting so soon?" asked JFK.

"Your father told me to," replied Minow.

He referred to the fact that Joseph P. Kennedy is a believer in going in and out of government jobs in a hurry. He served for two years as chairman of the Security and Exchange Commission, then for a brief period as chairman of the Maritime Commission, then briefly as ambassador to Great Britain. But in giving this advice, Joe Kennedy was undercutting the Administration of his son, who wants men to serve out their terms and has a hard time getting qualified men for tough government jobs.

Note—Minow's successor on the FCC will be picked by Attorney General Kennedy Bobby. He is watching the TV networks carefully, wants a commission which will take a cue from the White House.

Collins Scared Off

Ex-Governor Leroy Collins of Florida, now head of the National Association of Broadcasters, hasn't been scared off in his drive to eliminate radio-TV cigarette commercials for juveniles. Collins kicked up a terrific furor among broadcasters when he proposed banning cigarette commercials in the early daylight and evening hours. He almost got fired. But astute John Hayes, President of WTOP, reminded fellow broadcasters what the public reaction would be if Collins lost his job over this issue.

Meanwhile Collins is getting strong support from two sources: 1.—Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., brother of Secretary of the Interior Udall, who has proposed banning not only cigarettes but all tobacco commercials — also beer and wine ads during the early TV and radio hours.

2.—Dr. Samuel Wishik, professor of maternal and child health at the University of Pittsburgh, who has written a dynamite-laden report on cigarettes for the medical journal "Pediatrics" which is enough to make any expectant mother swear off smoking.

"Recent studies both in England and this country," writes Dr. Wishik, "show that when women continue to smoke cigarettes during the last 3 months of pregnancy, the average weight of the baby at birth is reduced as much as a whole pound."

"This means for the typical 7 pound baby, that he was deprived of one-seventh of the nourishment he should have received from his mother."

"Do we have to use our unborn babies as guinea pigs to demonstrate psychological effects that are less obvious in other situations?" asked Dr. Wishik.

"How loud does the warning bell have to ring to get past the emotional earplugs of smokers?"

Teen Aged Smokers

Dr. Wishik, who is chairman of the maternal and child health section of the American Public Health Association, is one of the most respected authorities on the health of children and pregnant women. He states that Madison Avenue has a heavy hand in making cigarette smoking "a common practice among nine, ten, and eleven-year-olds."

"Cigarette advertising nowadays, especially on television, plays up the two elements of sex and maturity to sell its product. Smoking by young people is glamorized, made to seem sexually attractive and in the male equated with virility. She leers through the spiraling wisps of smoke; he wears a tattoo. A fellow and a girl who do not smoke are not grown up. The emphasis is on 'moving into a man's world' and 'giving up that kid stuff.'"

"More than thirty years ago the tobacco industry contributed to establishing cigarette smoking among American women by billboard displays of beautiful women smoking cigarettes with captions urging them to reach for a cigarette instead of candy," Dr. Wishik says.

"An appeal was made to their concern about overweight. The women were fooled. Today they have the cigarette and no less worry about weight. We believe that Madison Avenue is giving American youth a will-o-the-wisp illusion that they will achieve greater sex appeal and confidence in feeling grown up," Dr. Wishik warns. "They will attain neither just by smoking, but will end up with a habit ingrained for the remainder of their lives. This is a false bill of goods," warns one of the most noted authorities on public health in the United States.

Governor Collins plans to use this material in his continued war against early TV-radio cigarette commercials.

Mice Open New Avenues In Leprosy Research

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

It is possible to grow the human leprosy bacillus outside the body. In certain white mice, these micro-organisms prefer the rear foot pads, which is logical because they grow best in a cool environment. This may explain why the disease involves the skin, mucous membranes, and the nerves outside the brain and spinal cord, rather than the deeper tissues. The rear feet are chosen because they are larger and provide more space to cultivate the leprosy germs.

The discovery opens up two important avenues for those specializing in this ancient disease. Mice can be given drugs to determine their effect on leprosy bacilli in the foot pads. This offers an excellent and rapid screening technique for trying a large number of antiseptic chemicals and antibiotics. Different anti-leprosy vaccines are being tested against the organisms cultivated in the mouse foot pads.

Most of the present vaccines are prepared from tubercle bacilli because the bacteria that cause leprosy and tuberculosis belong to the same family. The disease is contagious but prolonged contact usually is needed to pass along the condition. Fewer than 5 per cent of those living in the same household as an infected person develop the disease.

The malady starts as a small round slightly elevated spot, lighter in color than the surrounding skin. The nodules grow larger and newer blemishes appear. The causative germs live in the cells of these infected areas and spread slowly along the nerves to the spinal cord.

Most of the destruction to hands, feet, and other extremities stems from nerve damage rather than from direct involvement of these tissues. When nerves are affected, the skin becomes numb. The colorless spots and changes in skin sensitivity are early manifestations.

Leprosy is a world-wide problem but 80 per cent of the cases are said to exist in Africa and Asia. There are fewer than 2,000 victims in the United States but leprosy could become a more serious problem because of our increasing contacts with tropical nations. For this reason we need better anti-leprosy drugs and vaccines.

Try And Stop Me

Jascha Heifetz once spent a summer vacation at Lake Placid in the Adirondacks. The woman in the cottage next door practiced piano regularly for an hour each morning. Heifetz or no Heifetz. What's more, she played terribly. One day a stranger appeared at her door and said, "I'm the piano tuner." "I didn't order any piano tuner," expostulated the woman. "You didn't," agreed the piano tuner, "but Mr. Heifetz did."

Lewis Close, of Paw Paw High School was voted basketball coach of the year, first, second and third all-star teams were selected by the coaches and proposals to split the circuit into two divisions and adopt a rating system for basketball and football were rejected at the spring dinner meeting of the Potomac Valley Conference last night at the Homestead Inn Hotel, Burlington, W. Va.

Close's Buccaneers had an overall record of 23-1 this season and his three-year record at the Morgan county school is 52 wins and 16 losses.

Franklin Is Runner-Up

Piedmont and Paw Paw were recognized as the conference's co-champions in basketball and earned trophies. Franklin High School's Panthers (9-1) won the runner-up award.

Piedmont High School placed two players on the first all-conference quint, namely, Larry Patterson and Eugene Taylor. Roly Turbin, Keyser, and Ronnie Williams, Circleville, were the other cagers named.

The second team comprises Joe Nolan, LaSalle; Larry Harding, Paw Paw; Gary Cuppett, Ridgeley; Joe Breinig, Romney, and Bill Koppfe, Bayard. Wrestling was adopted as a conference sport and it was decided to award a trophy to the championship team each year. Six schools in the conference now sponsor mat teams.

It was announced that baseball schedules are due by April 15. Wife Denies Charges Made By Bill "Moose" Skowron

Criminal Adultery Alleged By Former New York Slugger

HILLSDALE, N. J. (UPI) —

Virginia Skowron, 29, denied Monday that her baseball star husband Bill (Moose) Skowron found her in a compromising position with a gentleman friend when he came home from spring training for a surprise visit.

"This is what made him so angry," she said. "He came back Saturday night expecting to find us in a compromising position and he did not."

"A detective with him took pictures, and the pictures will show this. He found two people dressed and asleep... one on the couch and one on the floor far away... so far you couldn't get both of us in the same picture."

"I made one mistake... I didn't have my dress on."

Skowron, former New York Yankee first baseman who was traded to the Los Angeles Dodgers, allegedly found his wife with Robert S. Jenco, 23, of Saddle River, N. J., early Sunday morning.

He filed criminal adultery charges against his wife and Jenco. Mrs. Skowron charged her husband and the detective with him, Mat Donahue, with assault and battery.

Magistrate Robert O. Bentley released Jenco in $500 bail and the others on their own recognizance. He set a hearing for Thursday.

Mrs. Skowron charged that her husband struck her and began slugging Jenco while he was still asleep on the couch.

"This is not the first time that I've been knocked around, but it is the first time Bill has been arrested for it," she said. "And you don't hit another man while he is asleep..."

Nicholson Homer Sinks Tigers, 4-2

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — Dave Nicholson exploded a 380-foot home run off Frank Lary Monday and led the Chicago White Sox to a 4-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Nicholson lined the ball over the left field fence while leading off the second inning. That put the Sox ahead to stay as they won their second exhibition game in three starts. The Tigers have lost two out of three.

Lary, the question-mark right-hander of the Tigers, was giving his arm its first test of the year. He worked the first three innings, gave up five hits and two runs. He struck out four including Nicholson the next time around.

Baltimore Rallies To Edge Senators

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — John (Boog) Powell's double with the bases filled climaxed a three-run rally in the ninth Monday and gave the Baltimore Orioles a 7-5 victory over the Washington Senators. The victory was Baltimore's third straight without a loss.

The Orioles went into the ninth trailing by one run and made four straight singles off loser Art Quirk, good for one run which tied the score. Carl Bouldin relieved Quirk and gave up Powell's game-winning double.

The Camper cagers brought Allegany its first state title since 1954 by defeating Springbrook High of Montgomery County, 57-39, in the Class A finals Saturday at Cole Fieldhouse in College Park.

To the resounding cheers of more than 2,000 Allegany students, the 15-man Camper squad was introduced by Tom Miller, president of the Student Center.

Congratulatory remarks were delivered by representatives of the board of education, including superintendent of schools Ralph R. Webster; principal Dr. W. Ardel Haines and other school officials; members of the press and radio corps; city street commissioner Mrs. Lucile Roeder, and W. Edward Eichner, representing the Camper Club.

Highlighting the hour-long assembly was the official presentation of a handsome three-foot trophy to the school.

William Faherty, Allegany athletic director, presented the trophy to coach Payne, who then turned it over to Dr. Haines for inclusion in the school trophy case.

The Allegany band, under the direction of S. Lusa Sykes, played for the assembly, and the school cheerleaders and majorettes performed.

Clay-Jones Bout Wednesday Night Reported Sellout

NEW YORK (UPI)—Unbeaten Cassius Clay and Doug Jones finished training Monday for their heavyweight contenders' fight Wednesday night with not one seat left for sale in Madison Square Garden.

The sellout of all 18,000 seats, announced Monday morning, was the first ever achieved before the day of a fight in the Eighth Ave. punch emporium's 38-year history.

Paw Paw's Lewis Close Named PVC Basketball Coach Of The Year

Two-Division Plan Rejected By 10-3 Vote

All-Stars Named;
Bruce Gets Berth;
Hupp New President

Lewis Close, of Paw Paw High School was voted basketball coach of the year, first, second and third all-star teams were selected by the coaches and proposals to split the circuit into two divisions and adopt a rating system for basketball and football were rejected at the spring dinner meeting of the Potomac Valley Conference last night at the Homestead Inn Hotel, Burlington, W. Va.

Close, whose Paw Paw High School Pirates posted a 10-0 record during the season and shared the P. V. C. title with Piedmont (14-0) was honored by being voted as the league's cage mentor of the year. Close's Buccaneers had an overall record of 23-1 this season and his three-year record at the Morgan county school is 32 wins and 16 losses.

Franklin Is Runner-Up

Piedmont and Paw Paw were recognized as the conference's co-champions in basketball and earned trophies. Franklin High School's Panthers (9-1) won the runner-up award.

Piedmont High School placed two players on the first all-conference quint, namely, Larry Patterson and Eugene Taylor. Rot and Hamilton, of Paw Paw; Terry Turbin, Keyser, and Ronnie Williams, Circleville, were the other cagers named.

The second team comprises Joe Nolan, LaSalle; Larry Harding, Paw Paw; Gary Cuppett, Ridgeley; Joe Breinig, Romney, and Bill Kopfle, Bayard. Six players named on the third team were Wayne Schinzinger, Petersburg; Ronnie Fraizer, Beall; Lyle Fultz, Capon Bridge; Gary Mangus, Fort Ashby; Don Wade, Romney, and Tom Condon, Keyser.

Bruce Joins Circuit

Bruce High School of Westernport was granted a conference franchise and became the 20th member of the circuit which comprises four Maryland and 16 West Virginia high schools.

Wrestling was adopted as a conference sport and it was decided to award a trophy to the championship team each year. Six schools in the conference now sponsor mat teams.

It was announced that baseball schedules are due by April 15.

The plan to divide the conference for football would have placed Beall, Keyser, LaSalle, Romney, Southern of Oakland, Petersburg and Bruce in the Northern Division and Circleville, Franklin, Moorefield, Ridgeley and the West Virginia School for the Deaf in the Southern Division.

In basketball the Northern Division schools would have been Beall, Keyser, LaSalle, Romney, Southern, Petersburg, Piedmont and Bruce while the other 12 schools, namely, Paw Paw, Franklin, Bayard, Circleville, Elk Garden, Wardsville, Capon Bridge, Ridgeley, Mathias, Moorefield and West Virginia Deaf would have made up the Southern Division. The vote against splitting up the circuit was 10-3.

Six schools were not represented at the meeting due to the hazardous road conditions resulting from yesterday's snowstorm. They were Mathias, Petersburg, Franklin, Moorefield, LaSalle and Wardsville.

Hupp New President

Robert Hupp, principal of Petersburg High School, was elected president of the conference for the ensuing year and Beck Carroll, principal of Bayard High School, was elected vice president.

John R. Shelton, assistant principal of Keyser High School, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Charles Freeland, principal of Capon Bridge High School, who filled the unexpired term of Dr. Wayne Hill as president, presided. The fall meeting of the conference will be held at Burlington.

Wife Denies Charges Made By Bill "Moose" Skowron

Criminal Adultery Alleged By Former New York Slugger

HILLSDALE, N. J. (UPI) — Virginia Skowron, 29, denied Monday her husband's charge that she had been having an affair with a man named Bill (Moose) Skowron.

Bill Skowron, former New York Yankee first baseman who was traded to the Los Angeles Dodgers, allegedly found his wife with Robert S. Jenco, 23, of Saddle River, N. J., early Sunday morning.

Charges Are Filed
He filed criminal adultery charges against his wife and Jenco.

Mrs. Skowron charged her husband with the same crime. She said she had been having an affair with Jenco for some time.

Magistrate Robert O. Bentley released Jenco in $500 bail and the others on their own recognizance. He set a hearing for Thursday.

Mrs. Skowron charged that her husband struck her and began slugging Jenco while he was still asleep on the couch.

"This is not the first time that I've been knocked around, but it is the first time Bill has been arrested for it," she said. "And you don't hit another man while he is asleep."

Nicholson Homer Sinks Tigers, 4-2

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — Dave Nicholson exploded a 380-foot home run off Frank Lary Monday and led the Chicago White Sox to a 4-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Nicholson lined the ball over the left field fence while leading off the second inning. That put the Sox ahead to stay as they won their second exhibition game in three starts. The Tigers have lost two out of three.

Lary, the question-mark right-hander of the Tigers, was giving his arm its first test of the year. He worked the first three innings, gave up five hits and two runs. He struck out four including Nicholson the next time around.

Baltimore Rallies To Edge Senators

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — John (Boog) Powell's double with the bases filled climaxed a three-run rally in the ninth Monday and gave the Baltimore Orioles a 7-5 victory over the Washington Senators. The victory was Baltimore's third straight without a loss.

The Orioles went into the ninth trailing by one run and made four straight singles off loser Art Quirk, good for one run which tied the score. Carl Boudin relieved Quirk and gave up Powell's game-winning double.

Lutherans Beat St. Paul's, 31-10; Playoffs To Begin

Coach Lou Baker's St. Luke's Lutheran cagers wrapped up the regular season championship of the Sunday School Basketball League's American Division yesterday by downing St. Paul's Lutheran, 31-10, at the Central YMCA.

St. Luke's thus joined Maple side Methodist as a division titleholder. The latter team posted an unbeaten record in 16 games for the National League crown. St. Luke's finished with a 14-2 mark, and by winning yesterday prevented a three-way tie for the number one spot.

Post-season playoffs get under way on Saturday, with four quarter-final games in each division.

Clay-Jones Bout Wednesday Night Reported Sellout

NEW YORK (UPI)—Unbeaten Cassius Clay and Doug Jones finished training Monday for their heavyweight contenders' fight Wednesday night with not one seat left for sale in Madison Square Garden.

The sellout of all 18,000 seats, announced Monday morning, was the first ever achieved before the day of a fight in the Eighth Avenue emporium's 38-year history.

In addition, 700 standing room tickets, at $4 a shot, were almost gone. Managing director Harry Markson said the total gate should approximate about $115,000.

Broadway ticket scalpers were asking from $50 to $100 for good $12 ringside ducats. One speculator remarked, "I wouldn't be surprised if a good pair gets $250 by fight time."

West Virginia Beats Connecticut, 77-71, In NCAA First-Round Battle

Ray's Clutch Foul Shooting Is Difference

SC Champs Move Into Regional At College Park

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Clutch foul-shooting by sophomore guard Ricky Ray enabled Southern Conference champion West Virginia to defeat Connecticut, 77-71, before a sellout crowd of 9,236 at the Palestra Monday night in the second game of a first-round NCAA triple-header.

New York University, sparked by its one-two scoring punch of Barry Kramer and Harold Hairston, defeated Pittsburgh, 93-83, in the opener to earn the right to face Duke Friday night in the eastern regional semi-finals at College Park, Md.

The third game of the triple-header sent Middle Atlantic Conference champion St. Joseph's against Ivy League titlist Princeton.

The six-foot Ray converted seven of eight free throws under extreme pressure to give West Virginia its 22nd victory of the season against seven defeats.

Connecticut finished their season with an 18-5 mark.

With four minutes remaining West Virginia held a 68-67 lead and coach George King ordered a time out. The Mountaineers went into a freeze and Connecticut failed to solve West Virginia's ball control methods.

Ray was fouled with 2:26 left and calmly converted two free throws for a 70-67 lead. He added two more foul throws with 59 seconds to make it 72-67. A field goal by Connecticut's Dom Pero cut West Virginia's lead to three points with 44 seconds remaining. Ray then converted three of four more foul tries to give West Virginia a 75-69 margin with 36 seconds of play and the Mountaineers had clinched the right to face Monday night's third game winner at College Park.

Rod Thorn and Tom Lowry did most of West Virginia's early scoring. Lowry finished with 19 points to lead the winners and Thorn added 17.

Tom Kimball led the losers with 19. The Mountaineers made good on 28 of 61 field goal attempts for a percentage of 45.9. Meanwhile, Connecticut could make only 34.7 of its tries, hitting on 26 of 75 shots.

West Virginia also took advantage of its free throw opportunities sinking 21 of 29. Connecticut was 19 for 29 at the free throw stripe. The lanky Connecticut team did manage to out-rebound the Mountaineers, 44-46.

The 6-foot-8 inch Lowry also led the winners in rebounds with 13 and enjoyed a torrid night from the field, making seven of his 11 shots.

Senior Jim McCormick, who added 15 points to the West Virginia victory, sank 6 of 11 tries from the field.

West Virginia had most of the better going in the first half after early ties at 11, 15 and 17. Thorn scored on a fast break to give the Mountaineers a 19-17 edge with 11:13 left before the intermission.

All of the Mountaineers had a hand in the scoring as West Virginia produced a 39-28 edge with 3:36 remaining in the first half. Connecticut, who were exceptionally cold from the floor at the start, started to hit from long range as 5-foot-9 inch senior Dale Comey began dropping in long jumpers.

Three straight long shots by Comey enabled Connecticut to cut West Virginia's lead to 42-40 at the intermission.

Connecticut finally gained a 50-50 tie with 15:07 remaining. There were additional deadlocks at 52, 54, 56, 58 and 60 before Connecticut took a 61-60 lead with 9:05 left.

The lead then saw-sawed back and forth until West Virginia went ahead to stay at 68-67 on a jump shot by sophomore Bill Maphis with 4:29 left. Then Ray took over with his pressure foul shooting.

Bowling Green Tops Notre Dame In NCAA Struggle

EVANSTON, Ill. (UPI)—Howard Komives scored 34 points Monday night to lead Bowling Green to its 11th straight triumph, 77-72 over Notre Dame in a first round game of the NCAA basketball tournament.

Komives, who averaged 19.2 points per game in leading the Falcons to the Mid-American Conference championship, tallied 21 of his points, including 10 in a row, in the second half to lead a rally after the Irish had bounced back on Walt Sahn's basket for the fifth tie of the game.

Pat Haley got the next bucket for the Falcons and Notre Dame never got even again as Komives launched his scoring spree.

It was the 19th win of the season for Bowling Green and the 13th in the last 14 games against six losses overall. The victory moved Bowling Green into the NCAA regional tournament against Big Ten champion Illinois at East Lansing, Mich., Friday.

Cincinnati Is Voted Nation's No. 1 Quint

Duke Finishes 2nd, 8 Of 10 Teams In NCAA Tournaments

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
The defensive-minded Cincinnati Bearcats made every post a winning one and emerged Tuesday as the nation's No. 1 college basketball team in The Associated Press final poll.

Just as they had done in the pre-season voting and in the 15 weeks that followed, Coach Ed Jucker's slick ball-handlers made a runaway of the decisive ballot.

They drew 35 of the 43 No. 1 votes from a special panel of sports writers and broadcasters and rolled up 420 points compared with 381 for second-place Duke. Duke got seven first place votes and Providence, which failed to place in the top ten, the other one.

Points are figured on the basis of 10 for a first place vote, 9 for second, etc.

Under this system, the final top ten included: 1, Cincinnati; 2, Duke; 3, Loyola of Chicago; 4, Arizona State; 5, Wichita; 6, Mississippi State; 7, Ohio State; 8, Illinois; 9, New York University; 10, Colorado.

Eight In Tournaments
All but two of these teams—Wichita and Ohio State being the exceptions—are involved in the NCAA's national tournament, which has its climax at Louisville March 23.

Cincinnati, with a 23-1 season's record and the best defensive average in the country, is favored to win its third straight tournament title, which would be an unprecedented feat.

Ohio State won The Associated Press poll in 1961 and 1962 only to bow in the tournament, won each time by the Bearcats.

"We're not in the least superstitious," said Jucker. "We have a good team and we think we can win."

Defensive Record Best

Cincinnati's methodical, precision-type play is reflected in the team statistics, which show the Bearcats with the best defensive average, 51.9 points yielded a game, and the fewest personal fouls committed, an average of only 13.4 per contest.

The Bearcats had a streak of 37 straight victories before being stopped by Wichita 65-64 on Feb. 16. They had beaten Wichita previously.

Loyola, averaging 93.9 points, is the nation's top scoring unit. Duke leads in field goal percentage with a .517 mark.

New York U. and Colorado were newcomers to the final poll, squeezing out Stanford and Providence.

Loyola made the best advance—from fifth to third—and Ohio State, beaten by Indiana 87-85 in the season finale, had the biggest drop—from third to seventh.

New York U. Tops Panthers, 93-83, In NCAA Tournament

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—New York University, powered by its one-two combination of Barry Kramer and Harold Hairston, outlasted Pittsburgh, 93-83, Monday night in the opener of an NCAA tripleheader before a capacity crowd of more than 9,200 at the Palestra.

NYU now moves into the eastern finals against Duke University Friday night at College Park, Md.

The second game of the triple-header sent West Virginia against Connecticut with St. Joseph's College and Princeton clashing in the nightcap.

The winners of the last two games will join NYU and Duke at College Park.

The all-around brilliance of Kramer proved too much for the Panthers. Kramer handed off six assists besides pouring in 37 points. Hairston, who missed part of the second half because of personal fouls, added 29 points and grabbed 10 rebounds.

Substitute Cal Sheffield led the losers with 20 points.

West Virginia Beats Connecticut, 77-71, In NCAA First-Round Battle

Ray's Clutch Foul Shooting Is Difference

SC Champs Move Into Regional At College Park

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Clutch foul-shooting by sophomore guard Ricky Ray enabled Southern Conference champion West Virginia to defeat Connecticut, 77-71, before a sellout crowd of 9,236 at the Palestra Monday night in the second game of a first-round NCAA triple-header.

New York University, sparked by its one-two scoring punch of Barry Kramer and Harold Hairston, defeated Pittsburgh, 93-83, Monday night in the opener of an NCAA triple-header before a capacity crowd of more than 9,200 at the Palestra.

NYU now moves into the eastern finals against Duke University Friday night at College Park, Md.

The third game of the triple-header sent Middle Atlantic Conference champion St. Joseph's against Ivy League titlist Princeton.

The six-foot Ray converted seven of eight free throws under extreme pressure to give West Virginia its 22nd victory of the season against seven defeats.

Connecticut finished their season with an 18-5 mark. With four minutes remaining West Virginia held a 66-67 lead and coach George King ordered a time out. The Mountaineers went into a freeze and Connecticut failed to solve West Virginia's ball control methods.

Ray was fouled with 2:26 left and calmly converted two free throws for a 70-67 lead. He added two more foul throws with 59 seconds to make it 72-67. A field goal by Connecticut's Dom Perno cut West Virginia's lead to three points with 44 seconds remaining. Ray then converted three of four more foul tries to give West Virginia a 75-69 margin with 36 seconds of play and the Mountaineers had clinched the right to face Monday night's third game winner at College Park.

Rod Thorn and Tom Lowry did most of West Virginia's early scoring. Lowry finished with 19 points to lead the winners and Thorn added 17.

Tom Kimball led the losers with 19.

The Mountaineers made good on 28 of 61 field goal attempts for a percentage of 45.9. Meanwhile, Connecticut could make only 34.7 of its tries, hitting on 26 of 75 shots.

West Virginia also took advantage of its free throw opportunities sinking 21 of 29. Connecticut was 19 for 29 at the free throw stripe.

The lanky Connecticut team did manage to out-rebound the Mountaineers, 54-46.

The 6-foot-8 inch Lowry also led the winners in rebounds with 13 and enjoyed a torrid night from the field, making seven of his 11 shots.

Senior Jim McCormick, who added 15 points to the West Virginia victory, sank 6 of 11 tries from the field.

West Virginia had most of the better going in the first half after early ties at 11, 15 and 17. Thorn scored on a fast break to give the Mountaineers a 19-17 edge with 11:13 left before the intermission.

All of the Mountaineers had a hand in the scoring as West Virginia produced a 39-28 edge with 3:36 remaining in the first half. Connecticut, who were exceptionally cold from the floor at the start, started to hit from long range as 5-foot-9 inch senior Dale Comey began dropping in long jumpers.

Three straight long shots by Comey enabled Connecticut to cut West Virginia's lead to 42-40 at the intermission.

Connecticut finally gained a 50-30 tie with 15:07 remaining. There were additional deadlocks at 52, 54, 56, 58 and 60 before Connecticut took a 61-60 lead with 9:05 left.

The lead then see-sawed back and forth until West Virginia went ahead to stay at 68-67 on a jump shot by sophomore Bill Maphis with 4:29 left. Then Ray took over with his pressure foul shooting.

$700,000 Raised For New Sacred Heart

Bishop Sheen Greets Many At Dinner

Neighborhood Is Stressed At Celebration

A total of $700,000 has been raised in a successful drive for money to build a new Sacred Heart Hospital on Haystack Mountain, campaign chairman Lewis J. Ort announced to 600 persons attending a fund - drive victory banquet at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club last night.

The goal for the drive had been $500,000. The new hospital will cost about $6,500,000. The Sisters of Charity, who operate it, will raise the other $6 million from other sources.

Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, auxiliary bishop of New York and director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, called the success of the drive an expression of "love of neighbor, which springs from the great flame of love which is God."

Lands In Washington

Bishop Sheen, who was to be flown here in Mr. Ort's private airplane, had to land at Washington instead because of snow here, then was driven to Cumberland. (He told the audience that the pilot had been in radio contact with Cumberland and had been told it was all right to land if they wanted to make the landing in Abe Feldstein's iron and metal works).

The bishop, who insisted on shaking hands with all 27 at the head tables before taking his seat, got up and mingled with the audience between the entree and dessert, shaking the hands of another 150 or so. After dessert he met about 75 to 100 more.

Bishop Sheen was the star of the show, but it was Mr. Ort who got the most fulsome praise, including some from Bishop Sheen himself, who said:

"Would it not be marvelous if the spirit that has been engendered here in the last few months by your common need be multiplied and spread throughout the world? We must spread this spirit to the poor of the world, who are generally unloved."

"I wish we could multiply the Lew Orts, that could just enlarge Cumberland and spread its spirit throughout the world."

The bishop said the common need of the community for the new hospital has instilled in Cumberland a neighborliness which takes its inspiration for love. He said a hard-boiled newspaper editor once defined love as "getting that which gets up in the middle of the night to fill hot water bottles for sick kids."

Bishop Walsh As Example

Bishop Sheen recalled his entry into China with Bishop James E. Walsh, brother of former Attorney General William C. Walsh, co-chairman of the campaign.

He said Bishop Walsh told him then: "I will never leave China (Continued on Page 6)"

Civil Marriage Bill Enacted

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The legislature put it up to Gov. Tawes Monday night whether Maryland will join the other 49 states in permitting marriages to be performed by laymen.

The House of Delegates voted 105-25 to complete action on a bill removing Maryland as the last state which required all weddings to be solemnized by a clergyman.

The bill sent the governor authorizes circuit court judges to designate personnel in the clerk's office to officiate at weddings in addition to clergymen.

The House Judiciary Committee earlier in the session had voted an unfavorable report to the bill. It was reconsidered and carried after spokesmen for virtually all religious faiths in the state issued supporting statements.

Ritchie To Attend Two Meetings

Stanley Ritchie, milk sanitarian for Allegany County Health Department, will attend a Maryland Association of Sanitarians meeting in Baltimore today.

Tomorrow he will attend the Annual Cottage Cheese Conference at University of Maryland, College Park.

Youth Found Guilty In Disturbance

A 20-year-old South End youth was found guilty of two charges yesterday as a result of an incident last Thursday night in which a City Police cruiser was damaged.

The youth, Stanley Edward Neat, of 1210 Lafayette Avenue, was fined $50 for disturbing the peace at a hearing in City Police Court before Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt and was fined $15 for reckless driving at a hearing in Trial Magistrate Court.

A Fayette Street woman had complained to City Police several weeks ago about a car parking in the rear of her home at night. She noticed the car again Thursday night and called the police.

Detective Kenneth W. Morrissey answered the call and when he came up behind the Neat car in the alley behind Fayette Street the vehicle took off at a high rate of speed.

Det. Morrissey told the court yesterday as he was chasing the Neat car the police cruiser was forced against the curb and a tree, causing several hundred dollars worth of damage.

Neat also was charged with failing to obey the command of a police officer, but Magistrate Weatherholt dismissed that charge because he said there might have been some doubt that Neat didn't hear the cruiser's siren.

State's Attorney James S. Getty represented the state at the hearing in Trial Magistrate Court and City Attorney Hugh A. McMullen represented the city in Police Court. Lee C. Barnett was the attorney for the Neat youth.

Officer Frank Valentine assisted Det. Morrissey Thursday night.

Local Man Fined On Motor Charges

Robert Warren Parker, 42, of 406 Columbia Street, who was arrested by City Police February 15 after a wild ride on downtown streets, was fined a total of $30 Saturday in Trial Magistrate Court.

Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt fined Parker $20 for going the wrong way on a one-way street, $5 for hit-and-run and $5 for reckless driving. Parker was tried last month but sentence was deferred until yesterday.

Officer Philip Gilpin arrested Parker after his car struck a utility pole on Baltimore Street, went the wrong way on North Liberty Street and onto the lawn around City Hall.

His vehicle then nearly ran into the front of a store on Frederick Street between Liberty and Centre streets.

Red Cross Will Observe "Jane Delano Day" Today

Today, across the United States, chapters of the American Red Cross will be observing "Jane Delano Day", a vital figure in the 100-year-old international Red Cross movement.

In Washington, D. C., there stands a memorial statue in her honor. The statue is located in a garden, in Red Cross Square at Red Cross national headquarters, and is regarded by American nurses as their national shrine.

This memorial to Jane A. Delano was paid for by nurses in memory of the woman who organized the Red Cross nurses corps and of 296 other Red Cross nurses who died in service in World War I. The draped figure with outstretched hands symbolizes the service of nursing.

On its marble base is inscribed a verse from the 91st Psalm: "Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day; nor the pestilence that walketh in darkness; nor for the destruction that wasteth at noonday."

Jane A. Delano was the first leader of American Red Cross nursing and second superintendent of the U. S. Army Nurse Corps, who was born on March 12, 1862.

Miss Delano's father died in the American Civil War. Where and how he died was unknown to his family, his grave unmarked. Perhaps it was just this mystery that influenced Miss Delano in assuring that sick and wounded soldiers should receive the best possible nursing care.

In 1909, in cooperation with leaders of the nursing profession, the National Committee on Red Cross Nursing Service was organized, with Jane Delano as chairman. The committee established a national enrollment of nurses and set up standards of eligibility. As a result, the Red Cross nurse reserve was shortly thereafter recognized by the Army and Navy as the official reserve from which their nurses would be drawn.

Miss Delano died in France in 1919 while inspecting the working and living conditions of "my nurses," as she called them. She is buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

From the time she had graduated from the Bellevue Hospital School of Nursing in 1886 until her death, she had devoted 33 of her 57 years to her profession. She nursed in yellow fever and typhoid epidemics, worked to improve the professional standards and to increase the stature of military, public health, and civilian nursing, and to training women to care for the sick and injured in their own homes.

Mrs. Sara G. Lindsay, executive secretary of Allegany Chapter of the American Red Cross, a participating agency of County United Fund, said the nursing (Continued on Page 6)

Crash Pins Local Man Inside Auto

Dewey Emerick, 28, of 120 Mulan Street, sustained possible back injuries last night when he was pinned inside an auto on Oldtown Road following two separate accidents which occurred on the slippery highway.

He was admitted to Memorial Hospital for X-rays and his condition last night was reported as "satisfactory."

City Police Officer Robert Hershberger gave this account of the dual accident:

Emerick's wife was driving along Oldtown Road about 5:45 p.m. when the car went out of control near Virginia Avenue and slid into a parked car which was shoved out into the line of traffic on Oldtown Road.

Emerick got out of the car and into the parked car in efforts to drift it back toward the curb. Meanwhile a car operated by Homer D. Deneen, 110 Gleason Street, was traveling along Oldtown Road and his car went out of control and rammed into the (Continued on Page 6)

SA Units Hold Candy Sale

Girl Guards and Sunbeams of the Salvation Army are conducting their annual candy sale this week, according to Major Ben Jones.

The Girl Guard Movement is the Salvation Army international organization for girls between the ages of 10 and 18, founded in England in 1915 and inaugurated the following year in the United States. The Sunbeams, younger sister organization for girls between the ages of 6 and 10, began in 1916. Today, there are more than 1300 active Girl and Sunbeam Troops in this country.

The current candy sale will help maintain the programs in Cumberland. Profit from the sale is used exclusively for troop equipment, camperships, annual trips, or for the purchase of the gray and red uniforms worn by troop members.

L. Faye Hensley, youth director, Miss Florence Poole, Guard leader, and Mrs. Loretta Siebel, Sunbeam leader, are in charge of the candy sale.

Father Freed; Son Wanted For Larceny

Governor J. Millard Tawes decided yesterday at an extradition hearing in Annapolis that a Garrett County man cannot be held for a crime charged against his son.

Eugene F. Fike of Oakland yesterday told Assistant Attorney General Joseph D. Buscher that it was his son, Eugene F. Fike Jr., who is wanted by Hillsborough County, Fla. authorities for stealing tools worth $300.

As a consequence, extradition of the elder Fike was denied. He said he did not know his son's whereabouts.

In another case, Governor Tawes ordered Edwin F. Roessler returned to Pennsylvania to stand trial for allegedly obtaining goods under false pretenses. He is charged by York County authorities with failing to pay a $94.48 bill for fuel oil delivered by Goodling Electric Company Inc. to his home when he lived in York.

An extradition warrant against Charles D. Heckman, wanted for larceny by false pretenses in Massachusetts, was dismissed because the papers were drawn incorrectly. The warrant should have been addressed to the Secretary of the Navy because Heckman is a sailor stationed at the Patuxent Naval Air Station.

Accommodations Bill Enacted By Legislature

Sent To Tawes For Signature

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Maryland's first public accommodations law, requiring equal service for Negroes in hotels and restaurants in half the state, was enacted by the legislature Monday night and sent to Gov. Tawes.

In an abrupt switch of tactics planned late Monday afternoon, the house concurred in senate amendments to the two bills backed by the Tawes Administration instead of forcing them into a joint conference committee of the two houses.

The house then voted 93-28 for the measure to require equal service in Baltimore City and 11 counties, and 99-22 for a companion bill which puts enforcement under the State Interracial Commission.

Endorsed By Tawes

Gov. Tawes strongly endorsed both bills and plans to sign them into law at an early date.

The measures will apply after June 1 in Baltimore City and Allegany, Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Cecil, Charles, Frederick, Harford, Howard, Montgomery, Prince Georges and Washington Counties.

A 12th county, Carroll, may be included in the bill if its voters approve at the 1964 general election. The local option amendment created legal questions which were finally resolved by a clause stating that if any portion of the bill was declared unconstitutional the rest would stand.

Covered by the measure are all of the Baltimore and Washington suburban counties plus those along the U.S. 40 corridor, where refusal to serve African diplomats traveling between New York and Washington focused national attention on the problem.

The State Department intervened with a strong request to Gov. Tawes that public accommodations legislation be enacted.

All of U.S. 301, another major north-south route through Maryland, also is covered by the bill. The bills apply to hotels, restaurants, inns and motels in the counties concerned but specifically exempt bars, taverns and cocktail lounges.

A person refused service on said grounds can file a complaint with the State Commission on Interracial Problems and Relations. That agency would investigate and negotiate with the owner for settlement of the problem. It could go to court for an injunction if he refused to cooperate.

Conversely, under a senate amendment, an owner would be privileged to go directly to court. He also could prosecute a person found to have brought a complaint against him maliciously.

The administration had only 49 green lights on the voting board indicating favor of the bill when it came up for enactment, but house leaders succeeded in talking delegates beyond the necessary 72 needed for passage.

Hess Pleads

Majority Floor Leader W. Dale Hess, D-Harford, pleaded with non-voting delegates to support the bill and warned them sternly that it was an administration measure.

"This bill needs 72 votes or it will be dead at this session," he said with an anxious look at the voting board.

"If this is the best we can do, then let's accept it," Hess said of the amended bill.

Hess had announced earlier that the house would reject the amendments at Monday's session. Gov. Tawes also indicated Monday afternoon that he expected the bills to go into a conference committee.

But it was decided shortly before the 8 p.m. session to take the bill as it was and try to push it through without letting it get into further trouble.

Six Inches Of Snow Falls Here

Emergency Road Plan Is Lifted

The rain predicted here yesterday by the Weather Bureau finally arrived at 6 p. m., but not before a surprise snow storm dumped up to six inches in Allegany County.

The snow ended in Cumberland about 5:30 p. m. and a hard rain began to fall shortly afterwards. The surprise snow storm caused the emergency snow plan to be put into effect in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties.

Some secondary roads in the area were slippery in spots last night and crews of the State Roads Commission had equipment and men out in the counties plowing and applying abrasives.

Approximately six inches of snow fell in Allegany County, while four inches were recorded in Garrett County. However, last night's rain was melting a good portion of the snow.

The forecast for today calls for variable cloudiness with scattered showers. The mercury is expected to reach the 50s during the day.

The temperature hovered around the freezing mark in Cumberland yesterday, but the mercury started an upward trend early yesterday evening and was nearing the 40-degree mark late last night.

State Police reported late last night that the snow emergency plan was lifted for Allegany and Garrett counties at 11:30 o'clock last night.

City Collects 91.5 Per Cent Of Year's Levy

Operating Costs Lag Below Par

The City of Cumberland completed two-thirds of the current fiscal year on February 28 with 91.5 per cent of the levy collected and with spending running about eight points below par.

This was shown in a report on the Condition of the Levy, prepared yesterday by Paul E. Rodecap, city comptroller, for the guidance of department heads. The report shows that $1,822,103.81, or 91.5 per cent of the year's $1,991,120 levy has been collected. This leaves $169,016.19 uncollected.

There appears to be no reason why the levy will not be met since more than $100,000 of the uncollected revenues are represented by so-called "Sher-bow" state and shared with political subdivisions in lieu of taxing powers.

A bright spot in the report is the collection of city taxes. On February 28, the city had collected $1,379,149.96 from the $1,345,790 tax levy. Excess collections totaled $33,359.96, or 1.02 per cent of the levy.

Most sources of taxes collected by the city and county appear to be coming in about on schedule. During the first eight months of the fiscal year, the various departments have spent $1,002,225.66 for services to citizens. This is 58.2 per cent of the funds set aside to finance city operations and leaves $717,444.84 for operating expenses between now and June 30.

Most departments appear to be operating within their budgets. The problem at this time of the year is to complete the year with enough excess income and unspent appropriations to make up an adequate surplus for the coming year.

The city began the current fiscal year with a surplus of $236,000.

200 New Public Housing Units Approved Here

Half Will Be Set Aside For Elderly

Approval for the construction of 200 new units of public housing has been received by the Housing Authority of the City of Cumberland.

Half of the units to be built under the authorization will be set aside, as requested by the authority, for senior citizens among the low-income residents of the city, according to James B. Raines, executive director of the authority.

The approval for the new housing units was received in a letter from Marie C. McGuire, Public Housing Administration commissioner.

The Housing Authority now operates 235 housing units in three projects.

Jane Frazier Village, the first project, went into operation in 1952 and provides the city with 125 low rent dwelling units.

The second, Banneker Homes, opened on Frederick Street the following year to provide homes for 30 Negro families.

Fort Cumberland Homes, the third project, was opened in 1960 on Oldtown Road to provide modern housing facilities for 80 families.

The scheduling of the construction program is still to be worked out, but is fairly certain the facilities will be provided in multiple units since, Mr. Raines points out, it is not economical to build less than 50-unit developments.

The authority is expected to speed preliminary planning work on the projects and will be in a position to proceed when the city's Workable Program for community improvement, now undergoing final review by the Housing and Home Finance Agency, is approved.

The housing for the elderly is being planned in accordance with a survey conducted by the authority.

Persons or families with low incomes where the head of the family is 62 or more, will be eligible for units which will be set aside for senior citizens.

Tawes Defends Slot Machine Moratorium

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Gov. Tawes hit back Monday at a Montgomery County minister who criticized him for a two-year moratorium amended into his slot machine bill by a legislative committee.

The Rev. Andrew L. Gunn said Sunday the governor had the votes to get the bill through the legislature as it was originally drawn. The delay, he said, "will give the powerful gambling interest in Maryland further time in which to rearrange their gambling apparatus and go underground."

It's very easy for Mr. Gunn to sit in Montgomery County and say we had the votes," Tawes told a news conference.

"Where were the votes? If he had information about them he should have brought it to us. I was informed the bill had a very slim chance without the amendment. We didn't want the amendment, but we didn't want to risk losing the bill because of it."

"Instead of helping the cause, Mr. Gunn is doing it a disservice."

The Methodist minister has been an active foe of slot machines in Southern Maryland and last year backed a bill which was killed decisively in committee. Tawes, at the time, was not supporting abolition of slot machines.

The governor expressed confidence that the moratorium amendment, recommended by his house leaders, has considerably brightened chances of passage of the administration's ban.

After house passage of the bill this week, it still faces a rough course through the Maryland Senate where local option courtesies are even stronger than in the house.

The administration beat down 92-29 an attempt by three of the four southern Maryland counties affected to exempt themselves from the bill's provisions in the house.

Tawes said he also regretted to see senate amendments to his public accommodations bill, but they are preferable to no bill at all.

"To get a public accommodations bill through these two houses (in any form) is progress," Tawes said.

The governor said he thought his entire legislative program was making fair progress in light of its controversial nature.

He said he still hopes the legislature will enact a compulsory auto inspection bill, but would prefer nothing this year to a system that would not be well regulated or well supervised.

He said he expects legislative passage of bills to establish University of Maryland branches in Baltimore County, the Eastern Shore and Western Maryland

$700,000 Raised For New Sacred Heart

Bishop Sheen Greets Many At Dinner

Neighborhood Is Stressed At Celebration

A total of $700,000 has been raised in a successful drive for money to build a new Sacred Heart Hospital on Haystack Mountain, campaign chairman Lewis J. Ort announced to 600 persons attending a fund-drive victory banquet at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club last night.

The goal for the drive had been $500,000. The new hospital will cost about $6,500,000. The Sisters of Charity, who operate it, will raise the other $6 million from other sources.

Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, auxiliary bishop of New York and director of the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, called the success of the drive an expression of "love of neighbor, which springs from the great flame of love which is God."

Lands In Washington

Bishop Sheen, who was to be flown here in Mr. Ort's private airplane, had to land at Washington instead because of snow here, then was driven to Cumberland. (He told the audience that the pilot had been in radio contact with Cumberland and had been told it was all right to land if they wanted to make the landing in Abe Feldstein's iron and metal works).

The bishop, who insisted on shaking hands with all 27 at the head tables before taking his seat, got up and mingled with the audience between the entree and dessert, shaking the hands of another 150 or so. After dessert he met about 75 to 100 more.

Bishop Sheen was the star of the show, but it was Mr. Ort who got the most fulsome praise, including some from Bishop Sheen himself, who said:

"Would it not be marvelous if the spirit that has been engendered here in the last few months by your common need be multiplied and spread throughout the world? We must spread this spirit to the poor of the world, who are generally unloved."

"I wish we could multiply the Lew Orts, that could so enlarge Cumberland and spread its spirit throughout the world."

The bishop said the common need of the community for the new hospital has instilled in Cumberland a neighborliness which takes its inspiration for love. He said a hard-boiled newspaper editor once defined love as "getting that which gets up in the middle of the night to fill hot water bottles for sick kids."

Bishop Walsh As Example

Bishop Sheen recalled his entry into China with Bishop James E. Walsh, brother of former Attorney General William C. Walsh, co-chairman of the campaign.

He said Bishop Walsh told him then: "I will never leave China."

Civil Marriage Bill Enacted

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The legislature put it up to Gov. Tawes Monday night whether Maryland will join the other 49 states in permitting marriages to be performed by laymen.

The House of Delegates voted 105-25 to complete action on a bill removing Maryland as the last state which required all weddings to be solemnized by a clergyman.

The bill sent the governor authorizes circuit court judges to designate personnel in the clerk's office to officiate at weddings in addition to clergymen.

The House Judiciary Committee earlier in the session had voted an unfavorable report to the bill. It was reconsidered and carried after spokesmen for virtually all religious faiths in the state issued supporting statements.

Accommodations Bill Enacted By Legislature

Sent To Tawes For Signature

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—Maryland's first public accommodations law, requiring equal service for Negroes in hotels and restaurants in half the state, was enacted by the legislature Monday night and sent to Gov. Tawes.

In an abrupt switch of tactics planned late Monday afternoon, the house concurred in senate amendments to the two bills backed by the Tawes Administration instead of forcing them into a joint conference committee of the two houses.

The house then voted 93-28 for the measure to require equal service in Baltimore City and 11 counties, and 99-22 for a companion bill which puts enforcement under the State Interracial Commission.

Endorsed By Tawes

Gov. Tawes strongly endorsed both bills and plans to sign them into law at an early date.

The measures will apply after June 1 in Baltimore City and Allegany, Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Cecil, Charles, Frederick, Harford, Howard, Montgomery, Prince Georges and Washington Counties.

A 12th county, Carroll, may be included in the bill if its voters approve at the 1964 general election. The local option amendment created legal questions which were finally resolved by a clause stating that if any portion of the bill was declared unconstitutional the rest would stand.

Covered by the measure are all of the Baltimore and Washington suburban counties plus those along the U.S. 40 corridor, where refusal to serve African diplomats traveling between New York and Washington focused national attention on the problem.

The State Department intervened with a strong request to Gov. Tawes that public accommodations legislation be enacted.

All of U.S. 301, another major north-south route through Maryland, also is covered by the bill.

The bills apply to hotels, restaurants, inns and motels in the counties concerned but specifically exempt bars, taverns and cocktail lounges.

A person refused service on said grounds can file a complaint with the State Commission on Interracial Problems and Relations. That agency would investigate and negotiate with the owner for settlement of the problem. It could go to court for an injunction if he refused to cooperate.

Conversely, under a senate amendment, an owner would be privileged to go directly to court. He also could prosecute a person found to have brought a complaint against him maliciously.

The administration had only 49 green lights on the voting board indicating favor of the bill when it came up for enactment, but house leaders succeeded in talking delegates beyond the necessary 72 needed for passage.

Hess Pleads

Majority Floor Leader W. Dale Hess, D-Harford, pleaded with non-voting delegates to support the bill and warned them sternly that it was an administration measure.

"This bill needs 72 votes or it will be dead at this session," he said with an anxious look at the voting board.

"If this is the best we can do, then let's accept it," Hess said of the amended bill.

Hess had announced earlier that the house would reject the amendments at Monday's session. Gov. Tawes also indicated Monday afternoon that he expected the bills to go into a conference committee.

Six Inches Of Snow Falls Here

Emergency Road Plan Is Lifted

The rain predicted here yesterday by the Weather Bureau finally arrived at 6 p. m. but not before a surprise snow storm dumped up to six inches in Allegany County.

The snow ended in Cumberland about 5:30 p. m. and a hard rain began to fall shortly afterwards. The surprise snow storm caused the emergency snow plan to be put into effect in Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties.

Some secondary roads in the area were slippery in spots last night and crews of the State Roads Commission had equipment and men out in the counties plowing and applying abrasives.

Approximately six inches of snow fell in Allegany County, while four inches were recorded in Garrett County. However, last night's rain was melting a good portion of the snow.

The forecast for today calls for variable cloudiness with scattered showers. The mercury is expected to reach the 50s during the day.

The temperature hovered around the freezing mark in Cumberland yesterday, but the mercury started an upward trend early yesterday evening and was nearing the 40-degree mark late last night.

State Police reported late last night that the snow emergency plan was lifted for Allegany and Garrett counties at 11:30 o'clock last night.

City Collects 91.5 Per Cent Of Year's Levy

Operating Costs Lag Below Par

The City of Cumberland completed two-thirds of the current fiscal year on February 28 with 91.5 per cent of the levy collected and with spending running about eight points below par.

This was shown in a report on the Condition of the Levy, prepared yesterday by Paul E. Rodecap, city comptroller, for the guidance of department heads. The report shows that $1,822,103.81, or 91.5 per cent of the year's $1,991,120 levy, has been collected. This leaves $169,016.19 uncollected.

There appears to be no reason why the levy will not be met, since more than $100,000 of the uncollected revenues are represented by so-called "Sherrow" state and shared with political subdivisions in lieu of taxing powers.

A bright spot in the report is the collection of city taxes. On February 28, the city had collected $1,379,149.96 from the $1,345,790 tax levy. Excess collections totaled $33,359.96, or 1.02 per cent of the levy.

Most sources of taxes collected by the city and county appear to be coming in about on schedule. During the first eight months of the fiscal year, the various departments have spent $1,002,225.66 for services to citizens. This is 58.2 per cent of the funds set aside to finance city operations and leaves $717,464.84 for operating expenses between now and June 30.

Most departments appear to be operating within their budgets. The problem at this time of the year is to complete the year with enough excess income and unspent appropriations to make up an adequate surplus for the coming year.

The city began the current fiscal year with a surplus of $236,000.

200 New Public Housing Units Approved Here

Half Will Be Set Aside For Elderly

Approval for the construction of 200 new units of public housing has been received by the Housing Authority of the City of Cumberland.

Half of the units to be built under the authorization will be set aside, as requested by the authority, for senior citizens among the low-income residents of the city, according to James B. Raines, executive director of the authority.

The approval for the new housing units was received in a letter from Marie C. McGuire, Public Housing Administration commissioner.

The Housing Authority now operates 235 housing units in three projects.

Jane Frazier Village, the first project, went into operation in 1952 and provides the city with 125 low rent dwelling units.

The second, Banner Homes, opened on Frederick Street the following year to provide homes for 30 Negro families.

Fort Cumberland Homes, the third project, was opened in 1960 on Oldtown Road to provide modern housing facilities for 80 families.

The scheduling of the construction program is still to be worked out, but is fairly certain the facilities will be provided in multiple units since, Mr. Raines points out, it is not economical to build less than 50-unit developments.

The authority is expected to speed preliminary planning work on the projects and will be in a position to proceed when the city's Workable Program for community improvement, now undergoing final review by the Housing and Home Finance Agency, is approved.

The housing for the elderly is being planned in accordance with a survey conducted by the authority.

Persons or families with low incomes where the head of the family is 62 or more, will be eligible for units which will be set aside for senior citizens.

Tawes Defends Slot Machine Moratorium
